

BILLIONS FOR GREAT BRITAIN OPPOSED

RAID BY JAPS
BELIEVED TOO
BIG A GAMBLEMARSHALL ADMITS
NON-ALERTNESS
IN HAWAII

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—General George C. Marshall testified today that the Japanese, in assaulting Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, took so tremendous a gamble that he didn't think they would try it.

The retired chief of staff told the joint committee investigating the disaster that there were forces at the Pacific base sufficient to have disrupted the enemy thrust. Such a result, he said, would have ruined the whole Japanese campaign of aggression.

"Non-alertness" in Hawaii, he said, was the reason for both the attack and its success. He testified that the prowling enemy fleet could have been recalled before the attack if the Japanese learned the defenders were ready.

Precautions Started
Marshall said the risks of the attack were so big that he did not actually visualize it at that time, though his testimony recounted that for 18 months beforehand he had been concerned over the possibility of a surprise raid and had been taking precautions against it.

The general's testimony accompanied introduction of documents from the late President Roosevelt's secret files, including a memorandum from Marshall saying "Britain is reaching limit of usable manpower. We must supplement her forces."

He also suggested speeding the increase of air power in the Philippines and "small increases" in ground army forces and equipment to "restrain Japan from advance into Malaysia or Eastern Siberia."

In his testimony on fears of attack and precautions against it, Marshall related publicly for the first time that a June 17, 1940 "alert" ordered for the Hawaiian army forces was no test but was issued because a Japanese raid was actually feared.

Commitments Denied
From that June on, Marshall's story of the days leading up to the Dec. 7, 1941, attack was studied with repeated instances of efforts to strengthen Pacific outposts despite demands from all sides for the trickle of arms coming from production lines.

The five-star general told his story before a standing-room-only audience in the senate caucus room. In nearby seats were most of those who figured prominently in the Pearl Harbor story.

Leading up to the introduction of many documents, which largely told Marshall's story of defense preparations, William Mitchell, committee counsel, questioned the general about the pre-war staff conversations carried on with the British, Dutch and Canadians.

Marshall said that in none of these was there any commitment for the United States to go to war.

"Did you ever know," Mitchell asked, "of any commitment by the president or anyone else by which the United States was committed to engage in war without being attacked?"

"No, sir, I did not."

Wife Of Former
Chief Justice Dies
Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of former Chief Justice Hughes, died tonight at her home here.

Death came one day after the 57th anniversary of their marriage, Dec. 5, 1882.

Mrs. Hughes was Miss Antoinette Carter, daughter of the senior partner of the law firm with which Hughes was associated as a young lawyer.

Hughes retired as chief justice June 30, 1941.

Yamashita Guilty,
Sentenced To Hang
For Jap Atrocities

Manila, Friday, Dec. 7 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander in the Philippines, today was convicted of condoning atrocities by his troops and sentenced to death by hanging.

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president of the five-general military court which tried Yamashita, read the verdict.

Nearly 200 prosecution witnesses in three weeks of testimony related story after story of mass horrors—rape, cremation alive by flaming gasoline and other atrocities—committed by Yamashita's troops.

Yamashita never once was accused of personally having harmed anyone, nor of having witnessed any of the uncounted brutalities charged to troops of his command.

He was accused, however, by witnesses who were close to him, of never once having lifted a finger to prevent atrocities.

Yamashita was the first of the top Japanese accused as war criminals to be tried.

In his own behalf, Yamashita denied that he even knew of such atrocities as he heard described daily in the courtroom. His defense was that he was too busy trying futilely to defend the Philippines to know what was going on in prisoner of war or internment camps, or in Manila itself as that city became a battleground.

He also contended that he was only indirectly responsible as commander, for he was subject to orders from Tokyo and from Count Terauchi, commander of the southern regions, which included Manila.

Just before the verdict was read, Yamashita through an interpreter made a short statement in which he said:

"My conscience is clear. I want to thank the commission for a fair trial."

CHURCHILL AND ATTLEE CLASH

Censure Of Labor Party
Defeated In House
Of Commons

BY ROMNEY WHEELER
London, Dec. 6 (AP)—By a 351-to-197 vote, the House of Commons tonight rejected a Conservative Party motion of censure after a two-day debate in which Winston Churchill charged that the Labor government was leading Britain "day by day nearer disaster."

Prime Minister Clement Attlee clashed with Churchill in the closing hours of the debate, denying the Conservative leader's charges that the Labor government had "fettered and hobbled" industry and enterprise, and impeded the nation's reconversion and demobilization.

Churchill had introduced the censure motion, which from the start had seemed certain of defeat by the predominantly Labor House.

Stating that British reconversion lagged at 43 percent at the end of September while American reconversion then had reached 92 percent, Churchill claimed that industry and enterprise were "fettered and hobbled at every step by an ever-spreading network of controls and regulations."

Churchill said the Labor government had kept men and women in the armed forces "doing nothing, or toiling at artificially-invented work," and asserted:

"It is certainly an astounding fact that at the end of this year we will be employing 670,000 more workers, making obsolete weapons to add to enormous dumps, than in 1939."

HURLEY HURLS
BITTER BLAST
AT DIPLOMATSU. S. FOREIGN POLICY
DEFEATED WITH
'INSIDE JOB'

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley asserted today that American foreign policy had been "defeated," and charged it was an "inside job."

The former ambassador to China also told the senate foreign relations committee that Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson had played "a leading part" in what Hurley termed destruction of this country's policy in Iran.

Hurley, who resigned his diplomatic post last week, did not go into any particulars. He said simply that his accusations would be borne out by documents he had asked the state department to produce.

Hurley's reference to an inside job was in a statement he read to the committee just before it adjourned. He said:

"The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that the defeat of the principles of the Atlantic charter, the defeat of the principles of the Iran declaration, the use of America's power to uphold predatory ideologies contrary to the announced policies of the government is an inside job."

"This is true whether the propaganda comes from career men or others."

Acheson Named
He offered to supply the committee confidentially with "a list of witnesses they might call from the army services."

"Who was it?" Chairman Connally (D-Texas) demanded when Hurley complained of interference by career men.

"All right," Hurley answered, "it was Dean Acheson."

To Connally's question, "What did he do?" Hurley replied:

"I prefer to submit the documents."

Connally observed that Hurley's testimony would be as good as the document.

Hurley then related that at the request of President Roosevelt he had helped to frame the American-British-Russian declaration at Tehran regarding Iran.

At no time during the hearing did he explain the connection of this document with his complaint against Acheson, nor was he asked to elaborate on this point.

He did tell Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) that "in the defeat of the foreign policy of President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Stettinius, I believe Mr. Acheson took a leading part."

Atomic Power
Seen As Coal's
Future Rival

BY JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press Business Editor
New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Nine leaders in the atomic bomb project estimated variously today that possibly in three and almost certainly in 20 years we could have atomic power capable of competing with $15-a-ton coal.

The scientists outlined in detail before the 50th annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers the possibilities of harnessing the atom for peacetime use.

Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, director of the entire bomb development, was top man in guessing "how soon." He placed his estimate in "decades."

Immediately, several of his assistants declared flatly he was "too pessimistic." Dr. Charles Thomas, vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Co., estimated 10 years would do it. Dr. J. A. Wheeler, professor of nuclear physics at Princeton university, declared the goal could be realized in from three to 10 years under ideal circumstances.

All agreed that the time could be shortened if more expensive coal was taken as a base.

Other points stressed by the atomic headlines were that:

The problem of producing atomic heat already has been solved at the big Hanford plant in Washington State.

One of the major difficulties will be to protect the users of atomic power from radio-active harm.

The protective devices must be so heavy that an atomic 100-kilowatt hour power plant would weigh 50 tons, thereby ruling out use in automobiles and present airplanes.

NIPPON TO GET
NO ATOM BOMBMineral Sources Will Be Taken Away, Mining
Curtailed

Tokyo, Friday, Dec. 7. (AP)—General MacArthur today took steps to make certain that Japan—the country that shuddered under two atomic bombs—never can develop an atomic bomb of its own.

The action came only a few hours after MacArthur had ordered the arrest of two of Emperor Hirohito's most trusted advisers—Prince Fumimaro Konoye and Marquis Koichi Kido—and seven other top criminal suspects.

MacArthur's headquarters announced in its newest order that every mineral resource which might permit creation of an atom bomb will be taken from Japan, even if it means shipping such minerals out of the country.

Wherever possible, mining of such minerals will be banned absolutely.

All mining will be limited to peacetime needs and research for war will be outlawed. A staff of civilian scientists already is undertaking an exhaustive study.

More than 5,000,000 soldiers and sailors have been demobilized, and still to make certain they never make more trouble, occupation officials are making certain they do not get key jobs where they might build up militarism.

Five Navy Bombers
Disappear In Dusk
Off Florida Coast

BY ROGER GREENE
Miami, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mysteriously swallowed up in the swift dusk of the tropics, five navy torpedo bombers with 14 men aboard and a sixth navy rescue plane with 13 crew members were the objective of a search off the Florida east coast tonight.

Dwindling hopes marked the search, described as one of the greatest in peace-time history, but navy officials said the planes had a high degree of buoyancy and that in similar emergencies the crews had been able to launch their life rafts "without even getting their feet wet."

Reinforced by a baby flat-top, the U. S. escort carrier Solomons, hundreds of army, navy and coast guard planes and scores of surface craft searched the waters on a 400-mile front from Jacksonville in northern Florida to Miami in the south.

The front extended 150 miles out into the Atlantic to the Bahamas, where the Royal Air Force pressed every available plane into the quest.

A last, flickering message of distress, sent by radio from the flight of five Avenger torpedo bombers on a training mission, puzzled officials as the hunt intensified.

"Have gas for 75 minutes more. Can't tell whether over Atlantic or Gulf of Mexico," the message is reported to have said in effect, indicating they had been caught in a blinding storm.

Commander Howard S. Roberts, executive officer at the Fort Lauderdale Air Station, where the ill-starred flight began, said the airmen were apparently blown far off their course by strong winds.

A belief that the five Avengers, caught by the sudden tropical dusk, might have all gone down in a mass collision while flying in a wing-to-wing "dead man" formation was expressed by a veteran at Miami Naval Air Station. Failure of any one of the planes to send out a message after the last signal at 5:25 p. m. lent credence to the theory.

UNION TURNS
DOWN GM PAY
RAISE OFFERSSTRIKE CONTINUES;
ANOTHER MEETING
FRIDAY

Detroit, Dec. 6 (AP)—The United Auto Workers (CIO) tonight rejected a General Motors offer to "reinstate" its offer of a ten per cent wage rate increase which the union turned down prior to the start of the GM strike 16 days ago.

Walter Reuther, UAW vice president, told a press conference after the meeting between GM and UAW officials adjourned, "the strike continues with no change in status."

Both GM and UAW spokesmen said, however, that another negotiating session would be held Friday.

Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, said in a prepared statement, "The offer to the auto workers was made on a ten per cent basis subject to a final adjustment after detailed analysis."

No Price Increase
Reuther, commenting on the company offer, declared, "The corporation still refused to discuss arithmetic and the fact that ability to pay should be a factor in wage discussions."

"We still maintain that an adequate wage to settle this strike is a 30 per cent increase without increase in prices."

Reuther told newsmen that during the conference a GM spokesman declared, "We don't say we can't pay 30 per cent; we won't discuss it."

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, interjected that he asked directly if GM could afford to pay the 30 per cent but that GM spokesmen refused to answer.

Reuther reiterated the union stand that it does not want to "take a wage increase if it means increased prices." He said "90 per cent of today's conference was spent in trying to get the company to discuss economics."

Picketing Not Mentioned
The union officials disclosed that there was no discussion at today's session on the company's charges that the UAW had engaged in "illegal picketing."

"We will try tomorrow to get these people to accept some very sound practices in collective bargaining involving arithmetic. We

Army-Navy Merger
Is Dangerous Plan,
Bull Halsey Says

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Bluff Fleet Admiral W. F. "Bull" Halsey fired a salvo of his typical verbal shots at proposed unification of the army and navy today.

But he let down a roomful of senators, army and navy officers and other spectators by terming the procedure merely "dangerous" instead of "damnable."

The explosive was in his prepared text. There is no question about need for "unified command" in actual combat, Halsey declared, but that does not require that the war and navy departments, which he said were complex and widely differing, be mixed together.

It is "pure bunk," the admiral continued, to claim greater efficiency from the merger. Instead he referred to it variously as a "muddle," "mirage" and "miracle."

He likened the unification plan to asking a "Protestant, a Catholic, and a Jew to save our national souls by recommending a national church and creed."

Christmas Recess
Of War Criminals
Trial Is Delayed

BY GEORGE TUCKER
Nuernberg, Dec. 6 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. prosecutor at the war crimes trial, deplored the Dec. 29 to Jan. 2 Christmas recess announced by the court today, and said the United States case now would have to be revised and shortened.

Over-luring American objections, Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding judge said "There must be a recess sometime in a trial of this length and complexity," and that "It seems best that it should come at Christmas."

Lawrence said defense lawyers had asked for a three-week recess for further preparation of their case.

FOREIGN LOAN
FIGHT BEGINS

RUSSIA, FRANCE AND CHINA MAY ALSO ASK CREDIT

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Truman administration agreed today to grant Britain $4,400,000,000 credit in return for British steps to promote world trade—and battle the lines immediately formed in Congress.

The British promised to carry out a broad program of commercial and financial reforms if Congress approved the credits.

The "if" may be a big one. Even before the official announcement was released at 5:30 p. m., some congressmen were on their feet in both chambers with objections.

Too Much Socialism
In the House, Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) shouted that the loan "will promote too damned much socialism at home and too damned much imperialism abroad."

Rep. Short (R-Mo.) asserted he would not vote one dollar "as long as they've got the crown jewels in London."

In the Senate, Senator Moore (R-Okla.) demanded that the balance of a $390,000,000 RFC loan made in 1941 be liquidated by the British before new credits are given.

The exact form in which Congress will be asked to approve has not been decided, officials said. But efforts are being made to reach a decision within the next few days and some authorities thought President Truman would send a message to Congress.

As soon as the British loan is out of the way the administration is expected to go to work on requests from other countries. Russia once informally suggested a $6,000,000,000 loan but has made no formal request. France and China have talked in terms of billions to meet their needs.

Repayment By 2001
The United States agreed to lend Britain $3,750,000,000 as soon as it can be put through Congress to finance Britain's reconversion to peace. The British will repay neither principal nor interest for five years. In 1951 they would begin repayments at two per cent interest over a 50-year period.

The principal and interest payments on the $650,000,000 are to be on the same terms as on the $3,750,000,000 so that in effect the British are obtaining a credit of $4,400,000,000. The money actually remains in the United States for them to draw upon as they want it. The terms mean that they must repay it by the year 2001, returning to the United States in cash approximately $7,000,000,000.

The British agreed to support American proposals for removal or reduction of barriers to international trade. The British had argued that unless they got the loan they would not be able to promote world trade outside the empire and would in effect be forced into economic isolationism.

Yuletide Mail For
Troops In Aleutians
Lost As Ship Sinks

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Loss of a quantity of Christmas mail intended for troops in the Aleutians was disclosed today.

The army said today a quantity of APO729 address was lost when a small craft, carrying mail from a ship to shore, sank in a storm. The mail originated in the States at a time when no request for package mail was required from the soldier.

In order to permit the sending at once of replacement packages to APO 729, the war department said the postoffice department has agreed to accept one Christmas package from any individual for mailing to persons at that address without the usual request requirement if the parcel is mailed not later than December 20.

Sugar May Be Hard To Get In January

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Individual sugar rations will continue to be five pounds in four months from January through April but housewives may find it harder to get sugar in January and February, OPA announced today.

With validation of a new sugar stamp, No. 39, on January 1, OPA expects a shortage which will be most noticeable on the east coast.

Sugar allotments to industrial users generally will be at the same levels for the first quarter of 1946 as at present, the OPA statement said.

Council Considers Deal To "Rent" City Airport But Postpones Decision

A number of minor business matters were disposed of at last night's regular council session and at least one proposal provoked considerable debate before it was tabled for settlement at a later meeting.

Councilmen decided to hold over until a later session a proposal by Walter Arntzen, well known local flier, and Fred Sensiba, manager of the local airport, to take over the management, operation and maintenance of the airport here, which costs the city more than $3,000 yearly to maintain and in exchange take hangar fees, profits from gasoline sales and repairs to transient and other aircraft. The proposal in no way affects the city's rights or individual's privileges in using the airport as a public service.

are going to keep trying and trying," Reuther concluded.

Today's meeting marked the first time GM and UAW officials had conferred since the walkout hit 213,000 GM workers in twenty states.

The fact that the two came together was taken as a hopeful sign although neither the union nor the corporation, bitter antagonists heretofore, would commit itself as to whether a settlement could soon be achieved.

INCREASE "INADEQUATE"
Detroit, Dec. 6. (AP)—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) tonight issued this statement in rejecting the General Motors Corp. proposal to reinstate its thirteen and one-half per cent per hour wage increase offer:

"The corporation offered a 13 and one-half per cent an hour wage increase straight across the board. I told the corporation that it was my opinion that the proffered wage increase was inadequate and the strike will continue until such time as an agreement is made on satisfactory terms."

"The corporation has taken the position in the past that it did not want to discuss prices. I put it on a different basis, that because of technological improvements, increased productivity, and the way we have kept workers on the job, General Motors Corp. can pay considerably more from a competitive position."

"I am quite sure I shall have the support of all General Motors corporation workers that this offer is adequate. The adequate solution is a 30 per cent increase whether taken on a competitive or any other basis."

Michigan Democrats May Try Removal Of State Chairman

BY JACK I. GREEN
Lansing, Dec. 6. (AP)—Attempts to oust Walter C. Averill, Jr., from his chairmanship of the Democratic State Central committee were reported today to be underway in Democratic circles in a dispute over finances and organizational policies.

While Averill sent out a call for a committee meeting here Saturday, Dec. 15, the four other officials of the committee dispatched a supplemental notice declaring the order of business would include action on methods of removing officers, their financial authority, limitations of their powers and procedures to be followed to fill vacancies. Other matters include adoption of new by-laws and a report of a financial audit.

Troops On Disabled Transports To Get Home For Christmas

New York, Dec. 6. (AP)—The troopships Henry Ward Beecher and George W. McCarty headed for Bermuda tonight after floundering in the storm-whipped Atlantic for two days because of mechanical trouble.

The Beecher, which lost its propeller about 510 miles off the British island, was being towed by a navy rescue tug. The navy said it expected to reach port Sunday.

Despite boiler trouble, which developed about 900 miles off Bermuda, the McCarty was proceeding under its own power. There was no indication when it would dock.

The navy said the army transport Saturnia would sail from here late today for Bermuda to pick up the troops aboard the two ships, so they could be home by Christmas. The Beecher has 541 soldiers aboard and the McCarty, 586.

New UNRRA Fund Of $1,350,000,000 Is Approved In House

Washington, Dec. 6. (AP)—The house today approved another $1,350,000,000 for UNRRA with a provision that President Truman try to get American newsmen admitted freely to countries receiving aid.

The vote was 327 to 39. Rep. Herter (R-Mass.) said he sponsored the amendment because White Russia and the Ukraine soon would be receiving aid from UNRRA and whether American reporters will be permitted there presents a "serious problem."

The house earlier turned down an amendment by the Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) which would have restricted U. S. aid to countries which permitted U. S. newsmen to report UNRRA activities there. The house wrote such a stipulation into an earlier UNRRA bill but the senate rejected it.

"Selection of this site on the border between our two great countries, which have been at peace with each other on this fortified frontier for over 120 years, would make an excellent cornerstone for your great organization," the congressmen said.

The cable was sent to Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the site selection subcommittee of the United Nations organization.

Ruin Of Axis Began With Pearl Harbor 4 Years Ago Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the great uncommemorated anniversary of American history.

This is Pearl Harbor Day—the date on which, four years ago, on a bright Sunday morning, a surprise Japanese attack smashed the United States Pacific fleet at its confined Hawaiian moorings.

Not even those shots that the embattled farmers fired at Lexington and Concord were "heard 'round the world" with greater clarity than the Pearl Harbor explosions.

Those explosions foretold the violent ruin of Hitler's German empire, the collapse of woe-begone Italy, and finally, three months ago, the abrupt surrender of famished, fire-blackened "faceless" Japan.

Four years ago Tin-Pan Alley contributed a tinny refrain, "Remember Pearl Harbor," and President Roosevelt proclaimed Dec. 7 as a day that would live in infamy.

Yet today, on this first peacetime anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the public remembrances of Pearl Harbor consisted chiefly of an acidulous and protracted congressional investigation into the original debacle and a statement by the present commander of the fleet on how much worse things might have been.

General Marshall told the investigators only yesterday that forces at Pearl Harbor were sufficient to have disrupted the onslaught and Japanese campaign of aggression, but acknowledged that he himself had not actually visualized the possibility of the attack because its risks were so great for the enemy.

Adm. R. A. Spruance, new commander of the Pacific fleet, pointed out in a statement at Pearl Harbor that the dockyards, shops and other facilities were scarcely damaged at all by the sneak attack, so that "the Japs had lost the opportunity to score a knockout blow."

Aside from these postmortem items, this was a day of preoccupations with the changeovers from war to peace, much as that first Pearl Harbor day was one of preoccupations with conversion from peace to war.

Nor was there evidence that the Japanese remembered Pearl Harbor, though its results lay all around them in ashes.

Their conquests are vanished, their navy destroyed, their armies dissolved, their chief plotters either dead, languishing in prison or awaiting the knock of the arresting officer, come to charge them with the crime of aggressive war.

The Americans they roused to anger four years ago today now rule the shrunken land of Japan.

BEGGAR HAS $132
Detroit (AP)—Polk Mc Neese, 45, was given a 30-day jail sentence on a charge of begging. Police said today that they found $132 in his pockets when they arrested him.

People in Holland, at one time, hung an unlighted lantern before a home in which a person had recently died.

Girl Kills Father, Threatens Mother With Ax Over $2

Detroit, Dec. 7. (AP)—Doris Neal, 17 year old girl who was convicted of killing her father last year and who recently threatened her mother with an ax, was still in police custody today after Circuit Judge Adolph F. Marschner adjourned hearing on the habeas corpus writ by which her mother, Mrs. Agnes Freschetti, sought to have her released.

The girl has been held for 13 days by Lincoln Park police after being taken into custody by Police Chief Floyd Crichton who said Mrs. Freschetti told him Doris threatened her when she was denied $2.

She was paroled two months ago to her mother after being held at the Girls' Training School in Adrian since her father's killing in May, 1944.

Chief Crichton testified today an Eloise hospital psychiatrist told him Doris was too dangerous to be at large. Mrs. Freschetti told the judge two psychiatrists she had engaged to examine the girl stated there was nothing wrong with her.

SAYS AMERICA UNDERFARMED

Briton Finds U. S. Not Getting Full Use Of Soil

BY LOUIS BLACKBURN

Bozeman, Mont. (AP)—America's rugged individualism in agriculture has left the best land in the country underfarmed, says J. D. F. Green, farm program director of the British Broadcasting company, who is touring the United States, Australia and New Zealand to observe new world farming.

Green, who stopped here to study farming methods in the fertile Gallatin valley, one of the northwest's richest agricultural areas, said he was most impressed by American farming's great potentiality—its "almost unlimited capacity to produce food against future emergencies."

"Although I think we in Britain have carried some aspects of feudalism too far into the organization of our countryside," Green said, "here in America rugged individualism also may have gone too far for efficient land utilization."

The British agricultural expert said he believed the best lesson the British farmer could learn from America is the high output of manpower in American farming, and the layout of farm buildings.

"The American farmer seems to dislike bending his back," he said, "and I have been much interested in the various gadgets I have seen to prevent his unhappy predicament. His operations in the field must please the heart of the salesman of farm machinery."

"This all means a much higher ratio of capital in machinery to value of land and buildings than we are used to in Britain."

"On the other hand, we have made enormous strides in mechanization in Britain during the war years, although now the British farmers cannot buy all the machinery they require."

Bermuda's Bikes Get Motor Push

By TERRY CLARK (AP) Newsfeatures

Hamilton, Bermuda.—Future visitors to this island colony may find its transportation system modernized but still novel, with islanders riding to work on a hybrid pedal-bike-motorcycle combination known as the auto-cycle.

While the colony's legislature continues its four-year battle over the issue of whether Bermuda should allow private cars on its roads, bicycle firms have launched a campaign for the auto-cycle, which is simply a pedal bicycle fitted with a small motor.

The campaign has found popular approval.

The House of Assembly has thrice passed a bill permitting general use of cars, but the Legislative Council has turned it down as often. The issue is still in deadlock.

The Council's main objection to permitting general use of cars is that one of Bermuda's principal assets is its beauty, unmarred by motor traffic.

The councilors admit that the colony's horse and carriage transportation no longer is adequate, but they feel that motor buses and taxis would be sufficient to solve the problem.

On the other hand the House of Assembly points to the fact that there already are many cars in the colony, owned by doctors, veterinary surgeons, and the United States and British naval and military services, and that some Bermudians are able to obtain transportation in those vehicles. Under those conditions, the House insists, it would be unfair discrimination to deprive the rest of the population of the right to ride in cars.

Bermuda is one of the world's biggest users of the push-bike, with over 20,000 used by its population of 33,000. The change to the auto-cycle would be an easy transition, and it could hardly be argued that the addition of a low-speed motor to the existing bicycles could materially impair the colony's beauty.

Indians once believed a curious rock formation in Wisconsin was table of the gods, and left offerings of food at its base for the gods to consume.

Rushton Named Manager Of The U. P. State Fair

ATTY. H. J. RUSHTON

Atty. H. J. Rushton, former attorney general and state senator, was appointed manager of the Upper Peninsula State Fair at the meeting of the board of directors in Escanaba yesterday.

The board selected the third week of August as the date for holding the 1946 state fair. Other routine matters were discussed. Selection of the grandstand show and other attractions will be made during the fair secretaries and managers meeting in Detroit in January.

Attending yesterday's meeting were the following directors: Patrick Kelly, Watersmeet; Harry D. Brackett, Escanaba; John McInnis, Sault Ste. Marie; William Kell, Wilson; and N. J. Niks, Munising, chairman.

Atty. Rushton sponsored the legislation in the state senate that created the Upper Peninsula State Fair during Gov. Fred W. Green's administration.

Mr. Leonard is survived by his widow and four children, John, Jr., and Floyd Leonard, Mrs. Florence Smith and Mrs. Hattie Hough, all of Shelton.

Lake States Council Meets In Milwaukee

Marquette—George E. Bishop, Secretary-Manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and chairman of the Michigan Tourist Council is this week attending the final organization meeting of the Northern Great Lakes Area Council in Milwaukee.

The Milwaukee meeting, held at the Schroeder Hotel, December 6 and 7, is the third of its kind, and it was expected that the council's by-laws and constitution, tentatively agreed upon at its last meeting at Duluth, will be approved. Election of officers will be held.

The Northern Great Lakes Area Council, composed of representatives from the state of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Province of Ontario, was organized to promote the common interests of the states and the province in the resort and travel field.

Publicity Helps

THE campaign to create a wilderness park in the Porcupine Mountain area, with its accompanying controversy and publicity, has drawn much public attention to that section of the Upper Peninsula during the past couple years.

That such publicity is valuable was demonstrated during the past deer hunting season, for the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau reports there was an unprecedented swarm of hunters in Ontonagon and vicinity. For instance, a little church at Rockland furnished food and sleeping space for a gang of hunters. At Silver City there were 113 tents of various sizes, shapes and colors scattered in the distance of less than a mile on either side of the Iron river. All the cabins and cottages in the region were filled.

All of which goes to prove that there are always some gains achieved when the Upper Peninsula and its communities exert themselves to create public parks, forest preserves and other improvement projects. The important thing is that they are trying to do something; they are not standing idle or slipping backward.

Parental Delinquency

IS JUVENILE delinquency a misnomer? Discussion of the youth problem during the observance of Home and Family Living Week brings out an increase amount of evidence that the parents, rather than the young people, should be blamed for much of juvenile crime, for the adults have also been falling in their home responsibilities. In this connection, O. O. Marksberry, writing in the Sioux City Journal, hits the nail on the head with the following comments:

Loitering through a department store Saturday, I was accosted by a saleswoman who said she'd like to talk to me some time about an important matter and asked if I'd have lunch with her.

When we met at the appointed hour and place, she nervously fumbled through her handbag for cigarettes like one on the fringe of neurosis. Out of the smoke fog that followed came the story how her boy, with some other lads, had been picked up for petty thievery and how the court had released him to her for a period of probation. She felt inadequate to meet the responsibility and solicited my help in working out a program for redirecting his interests.

Then I shot a few questions through the smoke screen. The mother has worked for ten years for selfish reasons. The father travels and is home only about four days a month. Both parents use liquor in the home. The boy's leisure reading is limited to "westerns" and detective stories; his favorite movies run in these same categories. The family has not attended church regularly since the mother went to work.

The situation in this case, like so many of its kind, seems a perfect environment for the spawning of juvenile delinquency. Most people will place the whole blame on the parents, but there are deeper causes so obvious that we overlook them. True, the parents are to blame because they have failed their children, but before they failed their offspring they first failed themselves.

The failure began when the glow of family firesides was being smothered by the craze for pleasure, the go-faster of easy transportation, the wave of extravagance in living, the new type mother minus the sacrificial heart, the business slave father with golf-craze compensations, all of which have reduced the home to a mere dormitory and irregular cafeteria.

The deterioration in church attendance began upon the advent of motion pictures and their general acceptance as a Sunday pastime. There are 80,000,000 or more paid admissions weekly to movie houses throughout America. The greater portion of the movies has contributed to a degeneration of the home.

Our exorbitant national liquor bill speaks volumes for our marked national alcoholism, while the consumption of approximately 300,000,000 cigarettes during the past year seems to indicate a national narcosis which can have naught but a bad influence on people in general and youth in particular.

The point is that juvenile delinquency is not a something which exists of itself. If that were true, it could be wiped out quickly. It is a fungus growth having its spores in the hearts and souls of discontented and neurotic men and women bent on living beyond themselves to satisfy the pleasures of the senses, rather than living from within to develop heart and soul life.

These dissatisfied and discontented men and women are the mothers and fathers of today. They are the parents of the present crop of juvenile delinquents. The altar fires of their homes have gone out and they will not be relighted unless they are willing to return to the basic principles of decent living.

He's Got Something

PROF. Raleigh Schorling of the University of Michigan believes that school textbooks should have more "oomph" to encourage the boys and girls to read them with more interest.

Thke professor observes that much progress was made in the development of textbooks for the armed forces. Better illustrations and humor were used to advantage in the wartime training courses, and the educator feels that some of these ideas might be used to take the stiffness out of the materials that Mary and Johnnie must work with in school.

The professor didn't mention it, but if Red Ryder, Superman and the other comic strips could be utilized in some manner as an incentive for study there would be many studious youngsters in our schools today.

The Difference

THE wide difference between government and private operation of business is revealed by comparison of railroad management in the United States during the two world wars. The illustration is supplied by John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads.

During World War I the government took over operation of the railroads. In that period the railroads paid federal income taxes of $146,000,000. An operating deficit of more than $1,500,000,000 was run up.

In the World War II period the railroads continued under private management. They paid federal taxes of more than $4,250,000,000 and made a profit from their operations. There was no deficit to be financed by the taxpayers.

After World War I it was necessary to increase freight rates 60 per cent to rescue the roads from their government operation deficit. Following this war freight rates are no higher than when the war began despite increased wages and other costs of operation.

Pessimistic

A CURRENT Washington prediction that only 1,000,000 automobiles will be manufactured next year may be as pessimistic as an earlier forecast as to the extent of unemployment come January 1.

When hostilities ended there were predictions that 6,000,000 cars would be manufactured during 1946.

Washington laborites were saying a few weeks ago that there would be 5,000,000, or 6,000,000 unemployed by Christmas and 10,000,000 by next summer. There are fewer than 2,000,000 idle today.

At the moment pessimism as to motor car production is justified. Factories that are not tied up by strikes soon may be. But America traditionally does not go in for prolonged layoffs. This country's claim to world leadership is in production.

If the worst should come to pass and this country manufactured only a million cars in a full year of peacetime effort, it would be a disquieting omen that it had hit the skids as a world power.

SNOW REMOVAL

(Milwaukee Journal)

Were county highway officials caught asleep by recent early snowstorms and, if so, why?

This is a northern state. Snowstorms may strike it at almost any time after late October or early November. Adequate equipment for the quick removal of snow from the highways is, or ought to be, available. Money for such equipment, and for snow plowing and all other highway needs, annually is poured into the state treasury by the millions of dollars. Most of it is distributed to the counties, including specific and substantial sums for snow removal.

Yet when snowstorms hit large parts of the state on Thanksgiving day and thereafter, some counties apparently were wholly unprepared. Weather reports were available to those counties, in advance of the storms and in greater detail than ever before, because aviation has largely expanded the predictions of the United States weather bureau.

Numbers of counties did not even have their snow fences in place. These still lay in rolls, by the roadsides. Other counties apparently did not get snowplows onto the highways as the storms began. Gradually many roads became impassable. Automobiles stalled or skidded into the ditches. Near Fond du Lac, a long line of such cars blocked some highways. In Jackson and Monroe counties, Highway 12 became dangerous.

It would seem that the state highway commission, as well as the counties, has a responsibility in this matter. Insofar as it provides snow clearance funds it ought to see that those funds are used for prompt and effective plowing.

That heavy snowfalls or blizzards temporarily will block some roads, no matter how speedily the plows are used, is clear. But modern equipment and, especially, undelayed use of it, should mean a better job than was done in Wisconsin during or after the recent storms.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

AGAIN "BEAN" FOR BEEN

San Clemente: Your logic is poor. You say the pronunciation "bean" for been is British, and that "bin" is the American pronunciation. Would you say "kin" for keen, "tin" for teen, "quin" for queen?—A. P. R.

Answer: English is unphonetic, and spelling does not follow sounds, or vice versa, as I have pointed out many times. For example: to, too, two; rite, right, write, wright; bomb, comb, tomb; bough, cough, hough, rough, though, through, hiccough.

There is no explanation for the spelling "been". The original Anglo-Saxon word was "bin," thoroughly Germanic in spelling, pronunciation, and meaning. This became "ben" in Middle English. And I have found these spellings in books dating from the 1600's: "bine, byn, byne, beine, beene, byne."

In Noah Webster's various dictionaries (early 1800's), "bin" was the only pronunciation listed. But there is good reason to believe that, before the turn of the cen-

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—President Truman's request for legislation limiting the right to strike marks the beginning of a political break which promises to have far-reaching significance for 1946 and 1948.

Support for Truman within the CIO and the PAC already had been greatly weakened. Now within the inner councils of both organizations they are studying how best to recast their program of political action for the next three years.

There are big questions to be answered and grave doubts to be resolved. Many influential leaders in the CIO have all along had doubts of the strategy in the General Motors strike.

President Phil Murray is said to have wanted to wait until after the first of the year at least before pressing any action against either steel or motors.

GM employees are almost certain to reject the President's request to return to work. Their leaders have pointed the way to refusal.

But what is worrying CIO leaders is whether any possible gain can come out of the strike against America's largest corporation. GM can afford to be completely independent and even indifferent over the outcome.

—EXCESS PROFITS IS FACTOR—
The excess profits carry back, which will be in effect through 1946, practically guarantees the corporation profits regardless of whether GM plants are shut down by strikes. That is for '46.

So far as the balance of this year is concerned, the excess profits tax would in any event claim most of any additional revenue coming in. That goes for all large corporations that have had huge war contracts.

As it works out, the corporations pay only a small percentage of the cost of a strike. Say, for example, that a company has accumulated $1,000,000 in excess profits. Under the tax law 85 1/2 per cent of this would be paid over to the treasury in excess profits tax.

But if this company has a strike loss in the same year of $1,000,000, the actual loss to the company is only $145,000. Because of the loss suffered in the strike the treasury would not get the balance of $855,000 at the 85 1/2 per cent rate.

Walter Reuther's strategy was to keep GM's competitors operating so that the competitive squeeze would work to force GM's capitulation. In the rush to get into production in a highly competitive market the company could not stand up. That was the theory.

It is not working out that way. GM parts plants which supply most of the industry with essential parts have also been shut down. Reuther says they will be reopened.

With a thoroughly disciplined union such a maneuver might be possible. But at this point all the inner frictions within the UAW, both at the top and at the bottom, come to light.

There are indications that industry, or some important segments of industry, believe that this is the time to break the power of the unions. Industry was never so well supplied with reserve funds. As the securities and exchange commission showed in a recent report, the net working capital of American corporations has doubled since 1939.

—PRESENTS UNITED FRONT—
Industry presents a united front. Reuther is talking about collusion and violation of the anti-trust laws. In the old New Deal days this talk might have produced action or a threat of action from Washington. But that day is gone.

Labor is split. John L. Lewis, who will soon return to the AFL, has an undying hatred of Murray and the CIO. It may be significant that industrialists who took part in the recent management-labor conference came away with high praise for Lewis.

Looking at it from the strategic point of view, you find it hard to see how this adds up to anything like victory for the UAW and the CIO. GM has shown a marked indifference to any form of conciliation and so have the steel companies.

But even in defeat, the CIO and its affiliates might wield considerable political power. If they went for a third party in certain key states, they might decide the election in 1948.

The Republican National committee is meeting in Chicago at the end of this week. They will be certain to take gleeful notice of the storm signals in the camp of the opposition.

tury, the customary American pronunciation was "ben". For instance, in stanza 53 of Maud Muller, Whittier used the "ben" pronunciation:

For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: "It might have been."

"Ben" for been still is heard occasionally, but it is now considered as dialectal. In standard American, been is pronounced "bin". "Bean" is heard in the speech of some (but by no means all) New Englanders. Otherwise, it is a conscious affectation.

True, Merriam Webster's lists "bean" as second choice, but with this comment: "The usual pronunciation in the United States is bin; in England bean is now customary, often becoming bin when unaccented." Indeed, the second choice pronunciation of the Oxford English Dictionary is "bin." A few American dictionaries list "bean" as second choice, but plainly label it as a Britishism.

Again I must remind those readers who have indignantly told me that, "The only correct way to speak is as the cultured English speak," that this is the United States of America. Our speech is not dictated or influenced by British usage, nor has it been for centuries. To hold otherwise is being so unrealistic as to be incredible in these days when the radio brings the honest American speech of the whole nation into our homes for all to hear.

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

OF LITERAL MIND—Lt. Col. Ralph Dickie, former Escanaban, who spent several years with the American command staff, U. S. Army in China during the war, admires the many good qualities of the Chinese.

He told Escanaba Rotarians the other day. But he also believes the Chinese sometimes lack a sense of the ridiculous as expressed in American slang, and an inability to understand American speech idioms.

Dunathan Col. Dickie told of an incident in which a Chinese interpreter, speaking to Dickie in English, praised the bravery of a Chinese war general.

"Yes, he is pretty brave," Col. Dickie said. The Chinese interpreter thought over that statement for a considerable time. He seemed to be both disturbed and puzzled.

"I can agree that he is brave—but I do not think that he is pretty," he said finally.

SENSE OF HUMOR—School teachers must of necessity have a sense of humor or they would crack under the strain of too-close association with the classroom.

One public school teacher is still laughing over the incident of the little boy, the coat and the button hole.

The coat was all right, but it was difficult to button, and the child required the teacher's assistance each time the coat was put on. After struggling with the buttons for several weeks, the teacher suggested to the boy that he tell his mother about the trouble.

"Tell her," said the teacher, "that you need either smaller buttons or larger button holes."

The days and the weeks went by and still the buttons were too large or the button holes were too small, for it required teacher's help each time the coat was taken off or put on. Finally she asked the boy if he had told his mother about the need for alterations in the closing equipment of the garment. The boy said yes, he had told her.

"Well, what did she do when you told her what the teacher said?"

"She just gave my coat a jerk and said 'Nuts to her,' the boy reported seriously.

KINDS OF WORMS—Warden Gerald Bush of the Michigan branch prison at Marquette is a conscientious man, and he also has a sense of humor. Speaking to law enforcement officers of the Upper Peninsula in meeting in Escanaba the other day, Warden Bush told of a prison inmate who turned the tables on him in a joke the warden attempted. Preparing to go to the prison garden, he asked one of the prisoners, a Negro who worked in the prison garden, to get him some worms.

"Not skinnny little fish worms, but big fat ones."

"Yassuh, yassuh."

"Not pale ones but nice and pink."

"Yassuh."

"Not the weak ones that break, but strong ones."

"Yassuh."

"And not ordinary fish worms. I'm going to fish for trout. I want trout worms."

"Yassah, yassuh—and does you want 'em foh to catch speckled or rainbows?"

MIRRORED TIME—An Escanaba business man, whose office window overlooks Ludington

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

The Ancient Order of Hibernians have arranged a buffet luncheon and entertainment in honor of State President John A. Fisher Sr., who will leave Tuesday for Phoenix, Ariz., where he will spend the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. Oliver McKenzie, of Pontiac, are the parents of a seven pound daughter, born on Friday. Dr. and Mrs. McKenzie are well known here. Mrs. McKenzie being the former Marian Burns.

Mrs. Ralph Bruce, the former Lillian Servant, is leaving tonight for Cincinnati, Ohio, where Mr. Bruce is now located and where they will make their home.

Manistique—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dufour, 111 South Fourth street, are the parents of a six and one-half pound baby girl, Wilma Marie, born Thursday morning.

20 Years Ago—1925
By a vote of nearly five to one the people of Manistique today, in a special election, placed their stamp of approval upon a council-manager charter for the city. The vote was 819 for and 181 against the proposal.

Arthur Derouin, 32, of Depere, Wis., formerly of Bark River, was killed while driving a truck of the Green Bay Coal company near Green Bay yesterday.

Win Schuldes, who has been ill for a month in a Green Bay hospital, is reported as improving.

street, found himself in the habit of craning his neck to catch a glimpse of a clock which extended over the sidewalk from an adjacent building, although there was a clock in the next room. The clock over the sidewalk is above the entrance to Q. V. "Ollie" Thatcher's place of business.

"If you'd move that clock out a little farther I'd be able to see it," the business man observed.

A few days later Ollie arrived at the man's office with a mirror on a metal bracket, which he fastened outside the window. He trained the mirror on the face of the clock, will place another mirror on the wall in the business man's office—and the man will then tell the time by the clock on the street reflected in the mirror in his office.

"The idea is Pat Gasman's," said Ollie. "He has a mirror outside the window of his office so he can see the clock on the First National Bank building."

THE CRIME CLUE—Out in the woods shortly after the 1945 deer season opened, an Escanaba hunter found where a doe had been killed and hidden in the woods along the road north of Nahma Junction. The doe was still there as evidence, and recently killed.

Looking around the scene of the "crime" (it's illegal to shoot does) the man found a hunter's numbered identification tag nearby. The tags have large numbers printed on them showing the same set of numbers as on the license issued by the state. Hunters are supposed to wear them on their backs. The man who had killed the doe had lost the tag which would definitely connect him with the killing.

The Escanaba hunter put the tag in his pocket, started walking along the road. He came to a hunting camp with a downstate car parked nearby. A man was chopping wood. Engaging the man in conversation, the local hunter gave him the tag and went on his way.

He knew the tag belonged to the man because: 1—Other men at the camp were still hunting. 2—The man was chopping wood to cook venison for his partners when they came in. 3—The man blushed.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE
Q. Are Merchant seamen between 18 and 25 years of age subject to induction if they quit the Merchant Marine?

A. They will not be subject to induction in the armed forces on completion of 32 months' duty with the merchant marine if their local draft board rules they have made "sufficient contribution to the war effort."

Q. Has the 75th Infantry Division shipped out of Marseilles?

A. The last of the Division was supposed to have left on November 12.

Q. What is the maximum of any kind of Government life insurance that one individual may carry?

A. A maximum of $10,000 coverage.

OF GENERAL INTEREST
Q. Does the new Presidential Yacht, Williamsburg, cost much to maintain and did the vessel see any war service?

A. The estimated annual upkeep of the 244 foot vessel is between $50,000 and $60,000. The former yacht was used in the North Atlantic as a convoy escort during the war. When originally purchased from its former owner, the Navy removed her luxurious fittings and converted the vessel into a command vessel, with guns mounted and special communications equipment. In fitting it for presidential use, few changes were made in the basic construction, other than building the special quarters for the President on the boat deck. The refitting work was done at the Norfolk Navy Yard, Va.

Q. Is it true that the entire population of the world could be accommodated in Texas?

A. Yes. Texas contains 7,412,755,046,400 square feet and as the estimated population of the world is two billion, each person would have 3,706,377 square feet.

Q. What are the duties of a Boatswain's Mate in the Navy?

A. He does all kinds of canvas work and hoisting with block and tackle. Handles rope, wire and anchor chain. Knows Navy signals. Handles power boats and sailboats under all conditions. Steers ship. Charts a course by compass, and directs salvage operations.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN
Q. What is cafe au lait?

A. It is merely hot milk flavored with a little very strong coffee. It has greater food value than ordinary coffee and cream.

Q. Does the quotation, "God tempests the wind to the shorn lamb," appear in the Bible?

A. No; the earliest known use is by Henry Estienne, a French writer, in 1594.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Republican National committee isn't overlooking any bets on 1946. Ex-Senator John Danaher of Connecticut, who became GOP congressional liaison officer after his defeat by Brian McMahon, outlined Republican plans at a secret meeting of the 78-79 club last week. This is a group of 78th and 79th Congress Republicans, who meet weekly in closed-door sessions.

Danaher made two major points. First, he advised the congressmen to go out and challenge federal job-holders and the beneficiaries of New Deal spending programs, instead of sitting quietly and bemoaning the fact that millions of people receive funds from the federal government.

"The thing to do is to go out there and put them on the spot," Danaher exhorted his Republican listeners. "Ask them, 'Are you a thinking man or are you a follower?' Make them squirm. Ask them, 'Are you bought or are you a citizen?'"

Danaher's second tip to the congressmen was that they should stop sounding "off about democracy."

"We all believe in democracy and the democratic form of government," Danaher said, "but the truth is that too many people tie up the word 'democracy' with the Democratic party. You'd be amazed to learn how many people think the Democrats stand for democracy and the Republicans for something entirely different."

"Article four of the constitution says we have a Republican form of government, and the more we can stress the word 'Republican' in that connection, the better off we are. We are simply playing into the hands of the Democrats when we constantly stress the word 'democracy.' Hereafter let's use our own word—'Republican.' With a small 'R.' It's just as good a word, and for our purposes much better."

—ANOTHER MISSOURIAN—
If President Truman calls Chester Davis of St. Louis back into the government as is now rumored, it will be the most resounding rebuff to FDR that Truman has administered thus far. For Chester Davis was about the only man Roosevelt ever got sore at publicly when they broke relations.

Davis was then War Food Administrator, had been rowing with Economic Stabilizer Vinson over the price of farm products and was threatening to resign. Finally Justice Byrne, Judge Vinson, and several other Roosevelt advisors had a long session with Davis in his hotel. They thought they had him sold on teamwork and cooperation.

But at the end of the conference, Davis, without telling anyone, went out of the hotel, got in his car, drove around to the White House and handed in a curt letter of resignation. Roosevelt then issued one of the most caustic letters of his career.

Talk at the White House now is that Davis, head of the federal reserve bank of St. Louis, will be brought in to replace John Snyder, reconversion administrator, also of St. Louis. Wisecracks outside the White House are that Davis has one good qualification for the job. Like both Truman and Snyder, he is from Missouri.

—CONGRESSMAN "STALIN" COX—
The rules committee of the house of representatives is supposed to be the toughest in congress—and usually deserves that reputation. But the other day when a group of ladies called on Chairman Adolf Sabath of Illinois to urge passage of the UNRRA appropriation bill he courteously ushered them into his rules committee.

ONE LICENSEE HERE IS FINED

Other Tavern Operators In County Penalized By Commission

One Escanaba tavern operator, Elodie M. Moreau, charged with permitting minors to consume alcoholic beverages on the premises and allowing students to loiter there was found guilty and given a 15-day license suspension; charges against two others were dismissed upon recommendation of Police Chief Mike Ettenhofer, and the rest of a fourth, Arthur J. Pouliot, was dismissed with a warning in hearings conducted here yesterday by Felix H. Flynn, representative of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Ten cases involving, in addition to those in the Escanaba area, proprietors from Bark River, Gladstone, Rapid River, Wilson and Menominee, were heard.

Commissioner Flynn made the following disposition of the cases: Walter E. Boucher, Gladstone, found guilty of selling before the legal hour and having his whiskey stock displayed on open shelves in public view, was given a $100 fine or 20 days suspension.

The license of Mr. and Mrs. John Shout, Bark River, Route 2, was revoked as of Dec. 17 after the commissioner found the couple guilty of having whiskey stored on tavern premises, permitting whiskey stored on the premises and having gambling equipment on the premises.

A dance permit for the tavern operated by Mrs. Ruth Karki, of Wilson, was revoked as of Dec. 17 when she was found guilty of disorderly operation and permitting minors to loiter in her establishment.

Edwin Waseen, of Rapid River, charged with possession of gambling equipment, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $50 or have his license suspended for ten days.

John S. Miller, also of Rapid River, was given the same penalty on a similar charge.

Francis Kaltenbach, Menominee, was also ordered to pay a $50 fine on the charge of possessing gambling equipment but another charge of questionable ownership was not proved and was dismissed.

The local cases dismissed involved Mrs. Clara LaFleur and Joe A. Wiles, both of whom were charged with selling to minors. Mrs. LaFleur had been dismissed with a warning in 1944 on a charge of selling to designate types of draught beer served in her establishment.

It was Wiles' first appearance before the commission. Both cases had previously been dismissed in justice court for lack of evidence.

Commissioner Flynn said that "selling to minors is one of the most serious offenses a licensee can commit and we have a set policy that persons convicted on such a charge be suspended from business not less than 15 days on the first offense, not less than 30 on the second offense, and have their license revoked on the third offense."

With the exception of that made against Mrs. Karki all charges were preferred by investigators of the enforcement division of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Negro 92nd Took Tough Mt. Casala

By NEA Service

On Aug. 20, 1944, men of the 92nd (Buffalo) Infantry Division went into action on the Fifth Army front in the Italian Apennines. Here the 92nd—one of the Army's all-Negro combat divisions—settled down into the deadly routine of foot-soldiers in that theater—long waits, slow gains, constant patrolling, and great suffering in the cold hills of central Italy.

But in February, the 92nd passed over to the attack, and moved on their objective, Mt. Casala, a peak dominating the western coast ports. The Buffalos stormed the mountain, and took it after a savage battle, much to the embarrassment of the defenders.

During the winter months the Buffalos not only held two German divisions pinned down, but captured the ports of La Spezia and Genoa.

The division rolled on northward, capturing Alessandria and Turin on its way. When the war in Italy ended, the Buffalo men were still moving forward, causing thoughtful Nazis a good deal of dismay at witnessing the strength and determination of an "inferior race."

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, leader of the Buffalos, Gen. Mark Clark said: "To the 92nd Division went an important part in the offensive which ended in the unconditional surrender of German forces in Italy. Please convey to your officers and men for me the fact that I value most highly the manner in which that assignment was carried out. These actions played a most important part in the victory."

Select Toys Which Suit Age, Strength Of Child

By ROSELLEN CALLAHAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York—Just as much caution and thought should go into the choice of children's playthings as is given to their formula or diet, says the National Safety Council, which is making a nationwide appeal to parents to "Play Safe" this Christmas season.

Time and again tragedy, rather than happiness has come from toys which were bought without inquiring into what materials they are made of, or what hazards they present.

Inquire About Dyes

In buying playthings or costumes, the Council cautions parents to inquire from sales clerks what kind of dyes and paints have been used and to refuse any articles made of highly flammable material. It recalls last year's Christmas tragedy when three children were burned to death and several others were disfigured when the brushed material used in imitation fur cowboy chaps caught fire.

It's also important, the Council says, to select something appropriate to the youngster's age and strength. A gift too heavy for a three-year-old to handle may easily lead to an injury. Many toys also need parents' supervision until the child knows how to handle them properly.

For instance, an air rifle, archery set, dart game or chemistry set can be very dangerous if the child is too young to understand the hazards involved. Even older children should be cautioned continually about their use.

Remember, babies and toddlers have a habit of putting everything in their mouths. Never give them small toys, marbles, beads or coins. A daily check should also be made of toys to make certain that no parts are loose which could be swallowed, and to see that there are no nails or sharp corners protruding from the play pen, sand box or coaster wagon.

Inspect Electrical Toys

Never give babies toy animals and dolls with button eyes which can be pulled out and swallowed. Best bet for "small fry," say safety experts, are washable playthings colored with vegetable or other non-poisonous dyes.

Electrical toys which have been in use for some time are also cause for anxiety. Inspect them regularly for frayed cords or any defect which may cause shock. Children should be reminded never to play with electrical equipment when their hands or clothing are damp.

And storage of play equipment is just as important as selection of safe toys. Serious falls are often caused by playthings left on steps or walks. Providing a toy chest or shelves, and teaching

JET-REACTION ENGINE USED

Liquid-Propellant Rocket Motor Employed In Robot Bomb

New York—The jet-reaction engine known as the liquid-propellant rocket motor, the type that powered German V-2 robot bombs at the close of the war, utilizes liquid fuel injected as used into a combustion chamber, and for this reason, its operation cannot be compared to the powder or solid-propellant rocket motor whose entire charge of fuel is lodged in the combustion chamber.

This difference between the two rocket motors was explained here at a "rocket dinner" of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by Lowell Lawrence, Jr., president of Reaction Motors, Inc., of New Jersey.

"The liquid-propellant rocket motor develops forward thrust by the rearward expulsion of combustion products at super-sonic velocity," he said. "The rocket motor, as distinguished from current aircraft power plants of the jet-propulsion or propeller type, does not operate on atmospheric oxygen, but depends upon a supply carried with the motor. The oxygen is furnished by an oxygen-yielding compound, known as the oxidizer, the fuel may be any hydrocarbon, both of these being known as the propellants."

The liquid-propellant motor can be repeatedly operated for long periods of time by merely replenishing the propellant supply. Basically, Mr. Lawrence said, it consists of an injector similar to the reciprocating engine's carburetor, a combustion chamber, nozzle and cooling jacket. The injector is made up of two chambers one to feed the oxidizer into the injector jet, the other to feed the fuel.

"In the combustion chamber, the fuel and oxidizer are burned," Mr. Lawrence explained, "thereby converting thermal energy into high-pressure gases which are ejected from the exit nozzle. The exit nozzle changes the internal energy of the rapidly expanding combustion gases into kinetic thrust energy by accelerating the gases to super-sonic velocities as they move from the high-pressure region in the combustion chamber to the relatively low-pressure region outside the nozzle."

Urges Participation In Outdoor Shows

Marquette—Announcing that the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau will be represented at four outdoor shows in 1946, George E. Bishop, Secretary-Manager of the Bureau, urged Upper Peninsula resort and tourist bureaus and private resort operators to make use of the shows as a means of disseminating information.

The Bureau, in cooperation with the Michigan Tourist Council will be represented at the following shows:

- Cleveland Auditorium, March 1-10.
- Detroit Masonic Temple Auditorium, March 9-17.
- Chicago Auditorium, March 15-23.
- Milwaukee Auditorium, March 30-April 7.

HAYFEVER HIT BY NEW DRUG

Not A Cure But May Lead Way To Even Better Allergy Remedies

By JANE STAFFORD

Washington—Victims of two kinds of allergic suffering, hay-fever and hives, may in future be getting relief from their misery by taking two or three pills daily of a new drug, it appears from studies reported by Dr. Earl R. Loew, of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, and by a group of scientists at the Mayo Clinic.

The new drug is known as benadryl. Its chemical name is beta dimethylamino-ethyl benzhydriol ether hydrochloride. It was first made, for other purposes, by Dr. George Rieveschl, Jr., of the Parke Davis and Company laboratories in Detroit. Dr. Loew and associates tested its action and degree of poisonous effect on laboratory animals and Dr. Loew, the Mayo Clinic group and Drs. A. C. Curtis and B. B. Owens of the University of Michigan have since tried it on human patients.

Benadryl is not a cure for hay-fever or hives. Its action is to relieve the stuffy nose, smarting, watering eyes, itching and other symptoms of these allergic disorders. Hayfever patients presumably will have to take it daily during their seasonal bouts of suffering. Victims of chronic hives treated at the Mayo Clinic broke out again with bumps, swellings and itching when they stopped the drug, so apparently they also, including sufferers with angioneurotic edema, will have to continue taking the drug daily to be assured of relief.

VETERANS LOOK FOR JOBS HERE

USES Registers 300 Vets In November Who Seek Local Employment

"With its wartime problem of finding workers for jobs reversed to that of finding jobs for workers, the United States Employment Service is vitally concerned with keeping unemployment to a minimum in this community," J. M. Damitz, manager of the local USES, said yesterday.

"The appeal to all employers, large and small, to list their job openings with the U. S. Employment Service is necessitated by the large number of veterans returning to this area seeking employment for whom there are apparently no suitable jobs available. Although the USES regularly contacts the majority of employers to develop job openings, it would greatly assist the local office if employers would immediately advise us of current or anticipated labor needs.

"Job seekers who have registered their qualifications with us constitute a reservoir of available workers with which to promptly fill employer orders. When we take the application of a worker, we render complete data determining all the jobs he is qualified to fill and the job for which he is best qualified. This application is checked against the employer's order for a particular job to insure that the workers we refer will meet employer specifications," Damitz said.

"Our Employment Service office is here to serve all employers and workers of this area. We urge the possible utilization of our services on the part of local employers in order that we may be of maximum assistance to this community in achieving full employment," he added.

Damitz reported that during the month of November about 400 persons were registered at the office in Escanaba seeking employment. Of the total, about 300 were veterans of World War II. Altogether the employment office has about 900 active registrants, and 38 persons were placed in jobs in November, a comparatively small number.

LIFE DEPENDS ON SURGEON'S SKILL—Because her heart has never pumped enough blood into her lungs, 2-year-old Judy Hackman slowly is dying. Friends of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hackman, of Buckley, Wash., recalled an operation by Dr. Helen B. Taussig, at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, in which she saved a boy's life by diverting an artery from one of his arms to his lungs. Above, Judy unconcernedly sips milk, as, with her mother, she awaits such an operation at the Baltimore hospital. (NEA Photo.)

TVA PRODUCED MUCH 'JUICE'

Generated One-Tenth Of U. S. Electricity During War

By BERYL SELLERS

(AP) Newsfeatures

Chattanooga, Tenn. The Tennessee Valley Authority furnished one-tenth of the electrical power produced for war purposes by all private and public power systems of the country, says G. O. Wessener, TVA power manager.

During the last 12 months of the war the TVA turned out 12,227,696,195 kilowatt hours of electrical power, he has announced.

The Authority's top priority customer during the past two years, according to Wessener, was the atomic bomb plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn. Although figures on Oak Ridge power consumption have not been announced, the War Department has revealed that the availability of a plentiful supply of electrical power from the TVA was an important factor in the location of the plant.

The system also provided power for the big aluminum plants at Alcoa, Tenn., and Lister Hill, Ala., the Volunteer Ordnance Works near Chattanooga, and tire and rubber plants at Shelbyville, Tenn., Memphis, and Decatur, Ala. Airplanes were made at Nashville and airplane parts turned out at Memphis and Knoxville with power generated by the TVA.

The system's greatest power dam is the Wilson, located at Muscle Shoals, Ala. Walton Seymour, director of the Authority's power utilization department, said, "The Wilson Dam produced more than 6,800,000,000 kilowatt hours during the war. The TVA has 26 major dams."

"Since V-J Day," Manager Wessener said, "power consumption in the Valley has dropped off considerably," because of the closing of such plants as the Volunteer Ordnance Works and slackening off of war production at many plants.

Last July, a month before the end of the war, the TVA system reached an all-time production peak with a demand on its system of nearly 2,000,000 kilowatt hours in a single hour and well over 1,000,000,000 kilowatt hours during the month.

M. E. Brotherhood Is Scout Sponsor

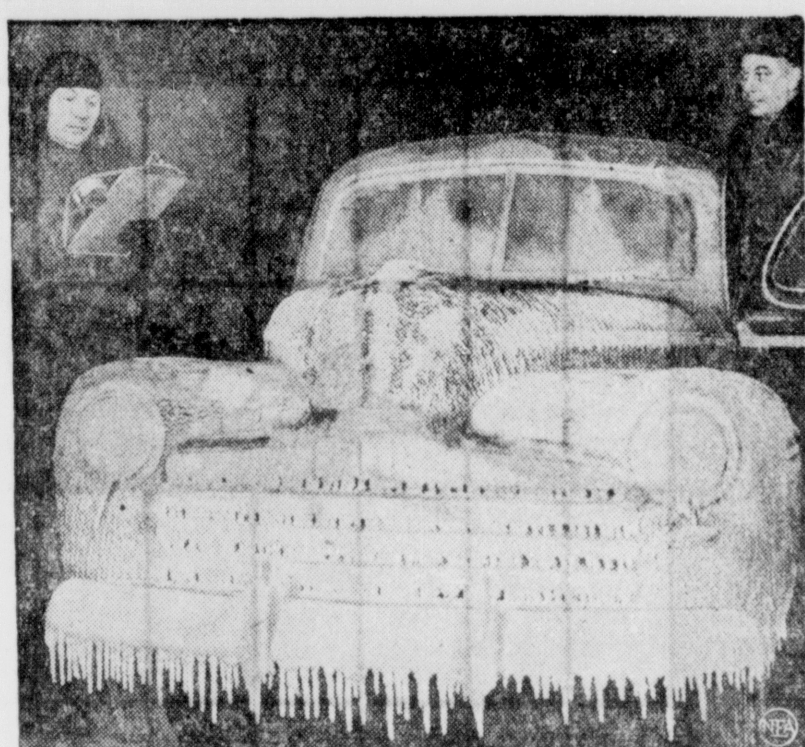

Troop 450, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Methodist Brotherhood, has completed its reregistration for the coming year, with a full personnel of qualified Scouts and Scouters.

Scouters registering are: William E. Cary and F. H. Baldwin, as Scoutmasters; troop committee-men, C. J. Sawyer, chairman, Harvey Germanon, R. C. Shaw, Rev. Otto Steen, and Edw. Edick.

Troop 450 has been one of the very active units of Escanaba, participating in nearly all Scouting activities of the community and the district. The troop will hold its meetings in the First Methodist church each Tuesday evening at 8:00 p. m.

The new sponsor of the unit will have as its representative, F. H. Baldwin, who is also the neighborhood commissioner. The duties of this position are to repre-

OCEAN FLYING FAILURES FEW

Advance In Engineering Gives Assurance Of Safety

Chicago—Transoceanic flying has now advanced to the point where commercial operations may be conducted with flight failures approaching zero, declared Frank R. Canney of Boeing Aircraft Company here today at the national air transport engineering meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. He estimated the probable frequency of emergency landings, or "ditchings", on the New York-London flight currently as about one in 16,576 flights.

Mr. Canney cited wartime flying records to prove his point. He reported that total AAF B-29 operations during the war, including combat flying, resulted in only one "ditching" for each 750,000 miles flown.

Increased cruising speeds, improved engine performance, and the operating policy of adopting alternate flight plans whenever trouble begins to develop, make the chances of emergency landings low, he said. Transoceanic flying safety is enhanced, he continued, by use of weatherproofed aircraft equipped with pressurized cabins, four supercharged engines, and radio communication.

Flying altitudes of 15,000 to 35,000 feet, he added, enable planes to take advantage of the most favorable winds. Flying speeds of 200 to 400 miles an hour make crossings so brief as to minimize chances of mechanical failures.

Engineering requirements for overwater flying differ little, Mr. Canney stated, from those of overland routes.

Although the plural of goose is geese, the plural of mongoose is mongooses.

sent the troop and its sponsor at the various meetings within the district, and to keep the sponsor informed of the troop's progress and general Scouting policies adopted.

A training session for members of the troop committee will be held soon, to inform the leaders of their respective responsibilities.

Munising News

Conservation Club Has Annual Meeting

Munising — Informal talks by local and visiting conservationists and election of officers for the ensuing year highlighted the annual meeting of the Munising Conservation Club, held Monday evening at the Sylvan Inn.

Peter Trudell, Jr., Negaunee, president of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association, reviewed work done by the organization, with which the local club is affiliated. Joseph Holman, president of the Negaunee Rod and Gun Club, discussed the work done by Mr. Trudell and the Northern Michigan association, and John Stephansky, assistant regional supervisor for the state conservation department, Marquette, spoke briefly on the cooperation the department is receiving from sportsmen's groups. He also commended Mr. Trudell on the excellent record of the NMSA.

Ray Adair, commercial fisherman and a member of the club, discussed commercial fishing and the recent seizure of supposedly illegal nets by the conservation department. Edward Coryell, another commercial fisherman, discussed sport trolling for lake trout and declared that commercial fishermen do not consider this sport competition.

The club elected the following officers: President, Willis Leiphart; vice president, John Hoffmann; secretary, Robert Radcliffe; treasurer, Alton Deibert; director, Ronald Blair.

Retiring officers are Roland Blair, president; Fred J. Gosselin, secretary-treasurer.

Charles Chevette Quits OPA Position

Munising, Mich.—Charles W. Chevette, Munising district board executive at the OPA office in Escanaba since March 30, 1944, has resigned his position, effective Dec. 7. He will return here to assume charge of Chevie's News Stand. Before joining the OPA, he was employed with the A. & P. company for 16 years.

News From Men In The Service

On the USS Arkansas—Charles W. Anderson, S 2/c, 710 South 13th street, Escanaba, Mich. is serving aboard this battleship, one of the 300 ships comprising the "Magic Carpet" fleet which is returning Pacific veterans to the United States for discharge or reassignment.

The 33-year old battleship, the Navy's oldest man-o-war, recently disembarked 1,050 seafarers and reassignees at San Pedro, Cal. on her initial "Magic Carpet" run.

Her first such cargo, incidentally, experienced a rough passage as the battle-scarred matriarch of the fleet fought resurgent seas and a whistling mid-November gale during part of her Pearl to Pedro passage. So severe was the storm that it delayed the dreadnaught's arrival in San Pedro harbor a day. The "Arky" made her World War II debut in the European theater and saw action at Normandy, Cherbourg, southern France, Iwo and Okinawa.

The body was taken to the Beaulieu funeral home.

For their regular program Tuesday, members of the Munising Rotary Club were guests of Kenneth Bakkum, manager of the Atlas Plywood, who took them on a tour of the plant.

Much Interest In U. P. Winter Sports

Marquette — Michigan Tourist Information offices at Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit have reported to George E. Bishop, Secretary-Manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, that there is "high interest" being evidenced in winter sports events. Bishop urged that all Upper Peninsula towns planning special winter sports events should keep these offices informed and should plan to use them as outlets for information. He suggested that sizeable pictures, literature and especially information regarding weather conditions be supplied these offices.

The Bureau was advised that these offices, which are open year around, are experiencing a large volume of inquiries concerning winter sports schedules and accommodations for guests in the towns where the events are being held.

Baby Shoe "Statuizing" New Industry Here

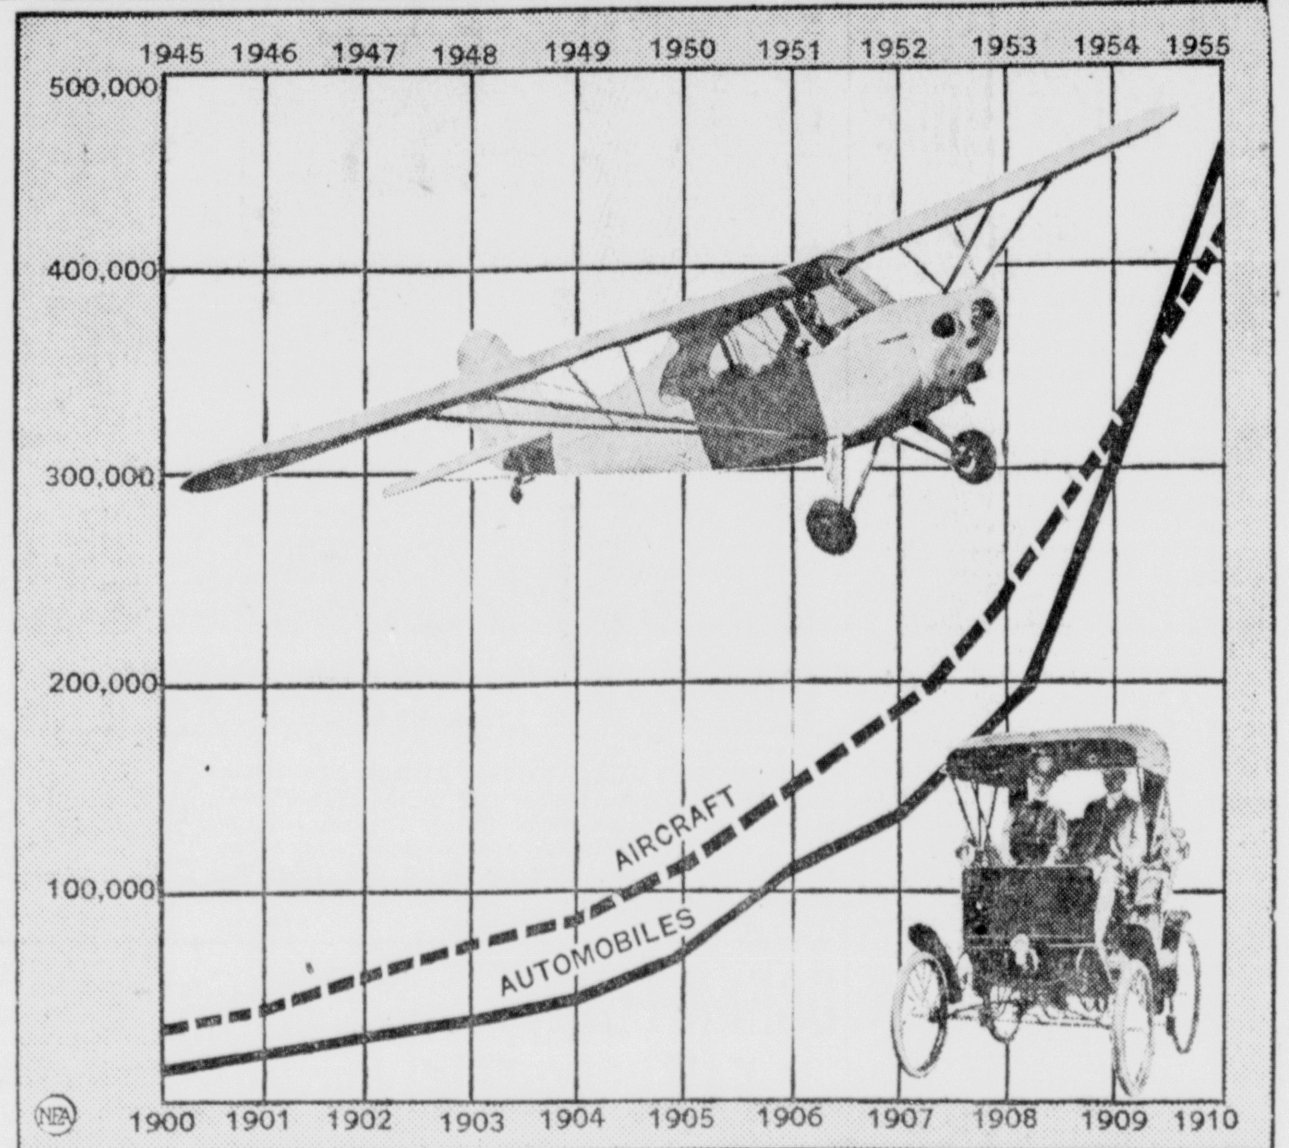

BASES FOR BOOTEES—One of Escanaba's newer small businesses is the "statuizing" of infant's shoes as keepsakes for proud parents. The business has been developed by the Provo Sign Service in its building at 611 Ludington. Pictured is Jack Ettenhofer, World War II veteran, whose immediate postwar job is making the wooden bases on which the shoes are mounted.

SHOES ARE FILLED—Olive Clish places the shoes on a rack to dry after they are filled with a cement. The business of "statuizing" shoes began about two years ago and has been growing steadily. To supply the demand of dealers display samples, it was necessary to advertise to bring in a few infant's shoes which were purchased for that purpose.

DISILLUSIONED — Hollywood actress Claire James, runner-up in 1938 "Miss America" contest, won a divorce from Raymond Dorsey, charging she learned his name really was "Dewarsky" and it ruined her happiness. (NEA Photo.)

PLANES REPEAT AUTOS' SALES-BOOM?—The sale of private airplanes in the next 10 years is expected to zoom up like the sale of automobiles did during the decade 1900-1910, a comparable period of mechanical development, according to Flying magazine. Chart above, prepared from Civil Aeronautics Administration figures, shows rise of automobile sales, compared to curve for estimated plane sales. The estimate envisions more than 400,000 private planes in use during 1955. (NEA Photo.)

SPRAYED WITH BRONZE — After being filled and dried the shoes are sprayed with synthetic finishes that resemble bronze or ivory. Betty Packenham is placing the shoes on a rack after they have been sprayed with bronze, which is the most popular finish.

PERMANENT TWO-TONE—Hand work is required in toning the finish, and this is done by Gertrude Johnson. The shoes are then mounted on the bases and are ready for use as paper weights, book ends or door stops. Baby shoe book ends are by far the most popular.

AIR FOR THE NAVY — Progress toward development of an "air Navy" is seen in Secretary Forrestal's announcement that Adm. John H. Towers, right, an air officer now head of the Fifth Fleet, "eventually" will replace Adm. Raymond A. Spruance as commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet. Naval aviators will hold more fleet commands and more top posts in Washington under the new policy. (NEA Photo.)

LAST RIDE FOR ILL-FATED SCHOOL BUS — After being hauled from the depths of Lake Chelan in Washington, this school bus which recently skidded into the waters and drowned 16 persons, is towed away from funeral services for the dead will be held at nearby Chelan. (NEA Telephoto.)

MORE COME IN—Thaxter "Bill" Shaw displays an armload of the infant's footwear before they start on their trip through the shop to become memorial bookends. Most unusual shoes so far "statuized" were a pair of German officer's boots, a war souvenir, made into door stops.

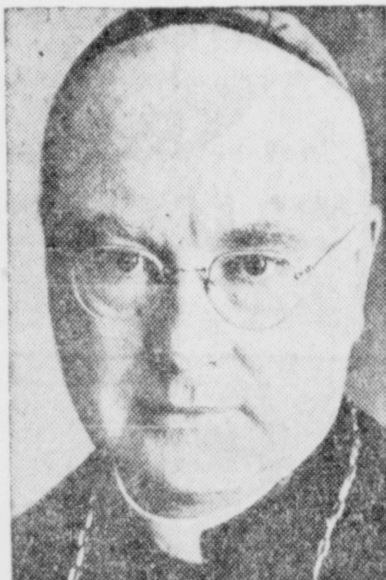

FINISHED PRODUCT — Horace Provo shows the finished product, one pair in ivory finish on a display base, the other pair in bronze as book ends. Provo and Shaw are partners in the business which is expected to expand with the growing popularity of "statuized" baby shoes.

SCOUT RESCUED AFTER HIKING ACCIDENT—Deputy sheriffs and county foresters carry Charles Maxey, 13-year-old North Hollywood, Calif., boy scout, to safety after he spent 27 hours on a Milibu cliff ledge with a broken ankle. The boy slipped while hiking with other scouts, falling 50 feet. (NEA Telephoto.)

PAPAL SECRETARY? — Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York may be appointed Papal Secretary of State, according to reports which followed church announcement of a program to further missionary work in the Far East through closer ties with the United States. (NEA Photo.)

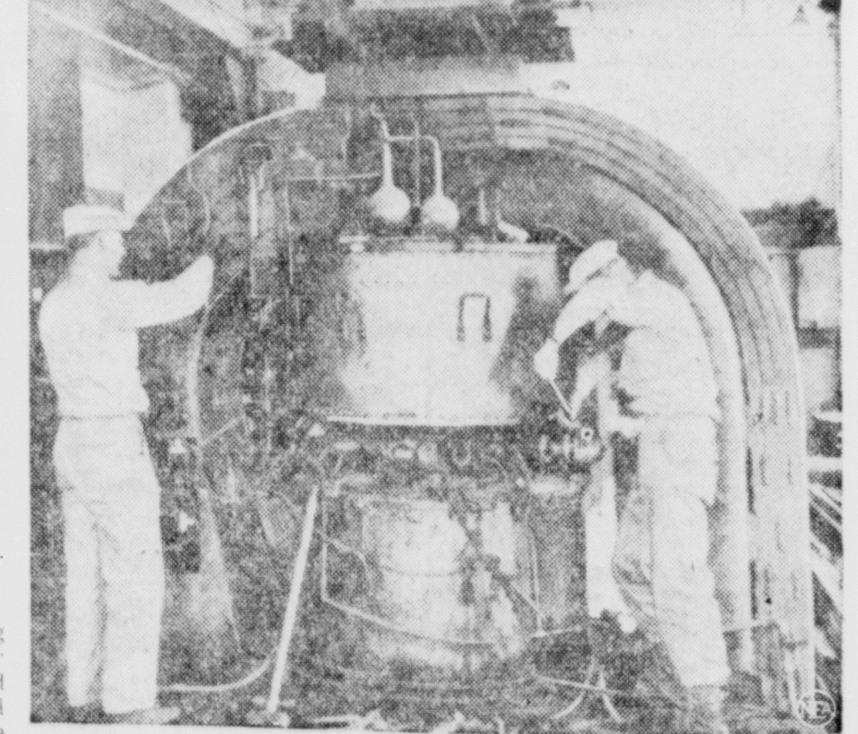

FOUR OF A KIND—It was a long step toward easing the beef shortage when that biological rarity — quadruplet calves — were born on the farm of Chas. Lucas and Sons at Dyer, Ky., last April 18. They are shown on exhibition at the Chicago Market Fat Stock Show, wartime replacement of the International Stock Show. (NEA Photo.)

PLENTY OF DAMAGE but no injuries resulted when a truck invaded the Gaffney restaurant at Freeland. Telling his story to Deputy Sheriff Harold Dietzel is Elden Cope, 31, of Burt, driver of the truck. Cope swerved to avoid hitting a car. He missed it—also the juke box in the corner of the picture. The truck went over the curb, up a flight of steps and through a brick wall.

BRIG HOUND — Into the brig went Capriccio, a brown cocker spaniel, when it was discovered that the pooch had been smuggled aboard the cruiser Boise at Le Havre, France, by Seymour Gellman of New York, a home-bound Army veteran. Above, Capriccio gazes sadly from behind the bars as the Boise docks in New York. (NEA Photo.)

JAPS' ATOM-SMASHERS SMASHED—Carrying out the occupation policy of destroying every Japanese means of making war, U. S. troops photographed here by Tom Shafer, Acme Newspictures-NEA Service photographer, dismantle small atomic equipment preparatory to smashing it. Equipment confiscated included five cyclotrons and related equipment in three cities. (NEA Photo.)

ORE SHIPMENTS DROP IN 1945

Tonnage From Escanaba
Is $4,684,168; Last
Carrier Clears

Total tonnage shipped from the C. & N. W. Railroad ore docks in Escanaba for the 1945 season yesterday stood at 4,684,168 tons following the clearing of the Str. J. C. Williams with a cargo of M. A. Hanna company ore from Iron River for the Hanna furnace in Detroit.

The Williams cleared at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday. The ship arrived in Escanaba from Menominee, where a cargo of coal had been discharged.

Of the 4,684,168 tons of ore received at Escanaba this season, 466,512 tons came from the Marquette range, and 4,217,656 from mines in the Menominee range.

The total 1945 tonnage was nearly one million tons below last year, when 5,737,300 tons were shipped. Peak shipping during the war years occurred in 1943 when 6,330,565 tons were moved from the North Western docks in Escanaba.

Iron ore shipments have been "over the hump" for several weeks. Quotas have been cut several times because of the effect of the end of the war and the coal strike upon steel industries. But shipments were continued into the late season and post-season to provide down cargoes for vessels that took coal to the upper lakes.

The coal mine strike cut heavily into lake schedules, but shipments about two million tons behind.

Many of the more than 300 vessels that comprise the Great Lakes bulk cargo fleet already have arrived at their winter ports, to remain there until spring. Most of the fleet is now laid up.

The 1945 shipping season opened in Escanaba on April 2 with the arrival of the ore carrier Peter Reis.

Perkins

Perkins, Mich.—Sgt. Robert Beauchamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beauchamp, has been honorably discharged from the Eighth Army Air Force after serving 35 months, 21 months of which he spent overseas. He participated in six campaigns, in air offensives in Europe, Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Rhineland, Central Europe. He wears the Victory Medal, American theater ribbon, European African medal, Eastern theater ribbon, Good Conduct Medal and distinguished Unit Badge with cluster.

Coleman Neurohr of Green Bay, formerly of this place is visiting this week with relatives and friends in Brampton and Perkins. Mrs. Bob Hughes of Harris visited at the H. D. Gibbs home Friday.

Orelle Beauchamp who has been visiting for the past week with friends in Milwaukee, Wis., Plymouth and Sheboygan, returned home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray LeClaire visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LeClaire of Escanaba.

Sgt. W. A. Moreau of the Army Air Base, Roswell, New Mexico, arrived Wednesday to spend 45 days furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Moreau.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Legault visited with relatives in Rock Sunday. Robert Beauchamp is visiting relatives this week in Chanute Field and Milwaukee.

Mrs. Ellen Godette has moved from St. Nicholas last week into the home she bought here from Mrs. Joseph Gerou.

Retailers Will Push Victory Bonds Today

Retailers of Escanaba hope to make Pearl Harbor Day, Dec. 7, the biggest bond selling day of the Victory Loan, according to a statement made yesterday by Gust Asp, local chairman for the Michigan Retailers War Savings committee.

"The Victory Loan officially ends on Dec. 8, the day after Pearl Harbor Day," said Mr. Asp, "although all bonds which are sold throughout the month of December will count on the drive total. We hope to be well over our quota by Dec. 8, however, and want to make Pearl Harbor Day of 1945 a day which will be long remembered, but for a different reason than in 1941.

"The people of this community have ample money with which to buy the biggest single day's volume of Victory bonds ever sold in this city. We earnestly urge everyone to make a special effort to invest in another Victory bond—a Pearl Harbor Memorial bond, you might say, to help wind up this important Victory Loan in victorious fashion."

Ten Important Science Stories Listed for 1945

By Science Service
Washington—The ten most important advances in science made during 1945, as picked by Watson Davis, director of this newspaper's Science Service, are:

1. The atomic bomb and the practical release of nuclear energy of potential industrial use.

2. Discovery and verification of the trans-uranium chemical elements 93, 94, 95 and 96, and the large-scale production of 94, plutonium, for use in the atomic bomb.

3. Use of the antibiotic, streptomycin, for the treatment of many diseases, especially those not cured by the sulfa drugs and penicillin.

4. Development of the proximity fuze.

5. Development and use of lo-ran, which allows determination of exact positions at sea and in the air through use of exactly timed radio signals.

6. Use of psychological warfare methods in hastening the Japanese unconditional surrender.

7. Development and use of BAL, a kind of alcohol, for the treatment of arsenic and mercury poisoning.

8. Development and use of the chemicals, ANTU and 1080, for killing rats and other rodents.

9. Successful transplantation of hearts in warm-blooded animals.

10. Steps taken in Congress for the establishment of a National Science Foundation.

Some of these developments were actually made before 1945 but on account of war secrecy were not announced until 1945.

Construction and maintenance of the Navy's air reserve bases is expected to cost $50,000,000 annually.

'GHOST ARMIES' HELPED TO WIN

Inflated Rubber Tubes
And Painted Fabric
Were Employed

Washington — An American "ghost army" that never fought but won decisive victories was revealed by the Army. Made up of not of flesh and metal, but of inflated pneumatic tubes and painted fabric, this decoy army included men who couldn't move, two-and-a-half-ton trucks weighing only 86 pounds and field artillery that couldn't shoot.

Enemy reconnaissance many times reported large-size mechanized units which in reality were only decoys constructed to simulate 19 different weapons and pieces of equipment used by our forces. Set up during the night by specially trained units, the true nature of these decoys was undetectable even within a few hundred yards.

Two or three men could unfold a mass of tubes and cloth from an 18-cubic-foot bundle and within ten minutes a two-and-one-half ton truck would stand beside them. The structural system of pneumatic cloth cemented to the tubing resembled perfectly from both the air and the ground the bulk and silhouette of its prototype.

Trucks of various capacities, tanks, anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, landing craft tanks, as well as various field artillery pieces, could be blown up with compressed air like gigantic Tony Sarg figures to represent large convoys or emplacements. An army could move to aid an endangered sector leaving behind what the enemy took to be fully equipped divisions. A weakened position was thus undetected and enemy breakthroughs were prevented.

Ten per cent of the number of men from a division were required to erect and maintain the decoys and create the appearance of normal activity. Many of the pneumatic decoys could stand ten days without repairs, but changes in temperature as well as handling methods made it necessary to keep a constant check and maintain the correct air pressure.

The idea for such decoys came out of the North African campaign, during which discarded barrage balloons were made into dummies to confuse the enemy. Success there made it advisable to perfect the method. The Engineer Board at Ft. Belvoir, Va., took the task in hand. By November, 1943, units were in production. Shortly after D-day completely equipped and trained forces were in action.

Elsie Karas,
George Statler
Exchange Vows

At a wedding which took place in East Lansing on Dec. 2, Miss Elsie Karas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karas, of Escanaba, became the bride of George W. Statler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Statler, of Bethlehem, Pa. The ceremony took place at the People's church, the Rev. N. A. McCune officiating.

The bride wore a dress of turquoise blue with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Richard Somers, the former Clara Karas. Mrs. Somers wore a brown dress with matching accessories, and a corsage of yellow and orange chrysanthemums. Frank Karas, Jr., the bride's brother, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a supper for members of the family was served at the Somers home in East Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Statler arrived in Escanaba yesterday to visit at the Karas home.

The bride returned from overseas a month ago, and has been stationed at the Red Cross Separation Center in New York. She spent two years in England and France as assistant program director and acting club director for the Red Cross. She attended Northern State Teachers College at Marquette, and before joining the Red Cross, held the position of music supervisor at Muskegon Heights.

Mr. Statler received his discharge from the army with the rank of staff sergeant. He served for three and one-half years with the Sixth Armored Division in the European theater, and wrote plays and articles for service publications and special services. He is a graduate of Temple University.

Mr. and Mrs. Statler plan to reside temporarily at Bethlehem, Pa.

Mary K. Carlson, John E. St. Martin
United in Marriage

St. Patrick's rectory was the scene of the wedding on Dec. 4 of Miss Mary Katherine Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Carlson, 1200 Tenth Avenue South, and Y 2/c John E. St. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer St. Martin, 509 South Ninth street. Rev. Fr. Freiburger performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a powder-blue wool dress suit, with blue feathered hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Carlson, who wore a dress of fuchsia crepe with black accessories and a black sequin hat. Her corsage was of white roses. The bridegroom's brother, Frank St. Martin, was the best man.

Mrs. Carlson wore a two-piece black dress trimmed with nail heads, and a corsage of chrysanthemums and rose buds. Mrs. St. Martin chose a black dress trimmed with aqua, and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for thirty members of the families was served at Belle's Coffee Shop. The couple left later for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride choosing a travelling costume of gold, with black accessories.

The bride is employed in the office of the Bird's Eye Veneer company. Y 2/c St. Martin is home on a 30-day leave after two years of service in the South Pacific with the Seabees. The couple will reside temporarily at 1200 Tenth Avenue South.

Attending the wedding from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. VanderWiele of Iron Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Eldred and Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Eldred of Ishpeming.

Milkiewicz-Anderson

At a ceremony performed at St. Joseph's rectory on Nov. 24, Miss Josephine Milkiewicz of Escanaba became the bride of Walter U. Anderson of Kipling. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Milkiewicz, 322 Stephenson avenue, and Kasimir Milkiewicz, Old State Road. Mr. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Kipling.

The bride wore a suit of cranberry shade with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was attended by Miss Vianna Anderson, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Anderson wore an ensemble of powder blue with matching accessories and a corsage of roses. Wilho Anderson, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

WED AT LANSING—Miss Elsie Karas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karas of Escanaba, became the bride of George W. Statler of Bethlehem, Pa., at a ceremony which took place on Dec. 2 at East Lansing. Mrs. Statler recently returned from Europe, where she served for two years with the Red Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Statler arrived here yesterday to visit at the Karas home.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home at 1201 Washington avenue. The bridegroom is employed here by the Wrecking Corporation of America.

B. R. T. Auxiliary
The Christmas party luncheon of the B. R. T. auxiliary will be held at Belle's Coffee Shop at one o'clock instead of 1:30 p. m. on Thursday, Dec. 13.

LeClaire-Cartwright
At a wedding which took place on Dec. 4, Miss Lillian LeClaire of Escanaba, daughter of Mrs. Mike Washub of Nahma, became the bride of Wallace A. Cartwright, son of Mrs. Katherine Cartwright of Gladstone, Route 1.

Justice O. C. Estenson officiated at the ceremony, which took place at the home of the bride's aunt.

Also included in the program were a candle-light ceremony by the Scouts, under the direction of Scoutmaster Kenneth Scott; community singing, directed by Supt. Paul Bowers, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Serge Hummon; and a motion picture, "Scout Trails to Citizenship." The supper was arranged by parents of Scouts and those interested in Scouting.

The Rapid River troop 465, sponsored by the Lions club, has completed its re-registration, with a total of 13 Scouts. Leaders who have registered include: Rev. Serge Hummon and Kenneth Scott, Scoutmasters; Ray Callahan, Joe Cassimir, John Miller, Leonard Nelson and Glen Caswell, troop committeemen. A training session for the leaders will be held in Rapid River on Dec. 20 at the Lions club meeting.

The next Scout meeting will be held at the high school on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

British Yule To Be Sparse But Peaceful

By FLORA LEWIS
AP Newsfeatures

London—Britain's first peace time Christmas in six years will be a wooden and paper one.

Toys, trays, and book-ends of wood are about all crowds thronging through London's stores can find to fill their Christmas lists.

And for tree trimmings—scraps of colored paper and white or yellow candles.

Since there isn't any Thanksgiving holiday in England and housewives know that sparsely filled shelves are bound to empty quickly, Christmas shopping started early.

Most of the stores have made some effort to decorate. One has bits of red and green paper around the pillars. Another, one of the more exclusive, has found some pitifully scrubby little trees to set up in its toy department. Their branches have clearly borne the joys of more than one past Christmas.

Toys consist of wooden trucks, carts, animals, blocks and little alphabet games. There are plenty of model airplanes for lads with their hearts on the skies. But there are very few model tanks, soldier dolls or other reminders of grim though exciting days.

There are no mechanical toys and very little sports equipment. Electric trains, roller skates or bicycles are out of the question.

For young ladies of two to twelve, there are pink and black-faced dolls of cotton. Though none have delicate porcelain noses or real golden curls, they are undoubtedly just as lovable companions.

Prices are fabulously high. A tiny puff of cotton that looks like a cat is 3 dollars. Crepe paper hats—the kind that used to cost five or ten cents each—are 50 and 75 cents.

Clothes are impossible to think of as Christmas gifts. They all take coupons, which are precious to rather threadbare Britons.

The joking gift-giver can find a few fancy gewgaws that should make for merriment on December 25, however. Pink and white lace garters or daring red satin ones are on sale for about a dollar and a half.

Housewives are already collecting staple rations for Christmas dinner, but there will be very few turkeys or chickens.

Whisky and gin is likely to be just as hard to ferret out at yuletide as it is now. But Britain is planning on a merry, peaceful Christmas.

RECENT BRIDE—Miss Marvel Sheedlo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheedlo, 1024 Sheridan Road, became the bride of Alan Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goodman, 933 Sheridan Road, at a ceremony which took place recently at the Calvary Baptist parsonage.

The shadow of wartime economy persists, however. Greeting card production restrictions were lifted too late in the year to assure unlimited supplies for this holiday season, but those available are exceptionally well designed and printed.

Early selection and mailing are urged by Army and Navy postal services for those thousands of servicemen and women who still will be overseas at Christmas. To insure pre-Christmas delivery, send the cards by first-class mail in sealed envelopes not later than November 15. All domestic Christmas cards, packages and letters should be mailed by December 10.

Sentiments and verses on Christmas cards, third greeting card industry reports, are shorter and more to the point than in the past, allowing plenty of space for a personal holiday message from the sender.

Clever Art Work

No taint of the hackneyed mars the freshness of the designs which are the work of some of the leading American artists and designers. Everywhere the return of peace is heralded. Angels look down over a broad and peaceful land. Soldiers gratefully lay down their weapons before the cradle of the Prince of Peace.

The heart-warming welcome home, reuniting families separated during the war, is reflected in familiar scenes. Horse-drawn sleighs step in front of snow-covered homes whose windows are cheerfully ablaze with light. Other cards depict families gathered around the Christmas turkey, or happily distributing gifts around the tree. A benevolent minister shovels the snow from his church door, inviting parishioners to a prayerful observance of their holiday reunion. Silhouetted against a window, Scotties watch expectantly for their master's arrival home.

Funny Ones, Too

Old Saint Nick, appearing in a variety of predicaments, replaces last year's emphasis on wartime shortages and inconveniences in the humorous category. Santa is shown as a gentle little man looking suspiciously like Father with whiskers, an urbane playboy, a jolly kibitzer, a winning prizefighter and a street photographer.

For the first time a group of fashion artists has turned its sure sense of color and line to the creation of Christmas cards. One artist uses clear peasant costume colors in a stylized treatment of the Christmas story. Others treat traditional Christmas skating and fireside scenes with sophisticated finesse.

Modern and imaginative, this year's cards picture the national desire for a truly old-fashioned Merry Christmas.

Clever Holiday Greeting Cards Are Available

New York—Peace on earth. This Christmas message, ringing out after five dark war years, is the joyous theme of 1945 Christmas cards.

A LESSON FROM THE MULE

He's mighty useful, the mule. Feed him right and he'll pull all day, no matter how heavy the load or how tough the going.

But the feeding is important. If he gets too little, day after day, he grows weak. So when you buy a mule, you're more interested in how much he can pull than in how little you can feed him.

Your Telephone Company pulls a heavy load, too, and for the past three war years the going has been tough. Handling more business than ever before, Michigan Bell has had its largest gross income. But wages, taxes, and other costs have gone up even faster, so net earnings are far below the pre-war rate—far below the earnings of other industries.

It's like underfeeding the mule. If earnings are not sufficient, the Company's ability to pull the load becomes weakened.

Michigan Bell customers want good service. The telephone bill is so small an item in their regular expenditures that customers want really good service even though it might cost a trifle more than they would need to pay for inferior service.

To give you the kind of service you want in the future, when and where you want it, Michigan Bell is undertaking a 5-year $120,000,000 post-war program of expansion and improvement. Money to finance that program must come from the savings of people who want to make a sound investment. But if prospects for future Telephone Company earnings are unattractive compared with those of other companies, they won't supply the money we will need. They'll place their savings elsewhere.

Too long a continuation of a rate of earnings substantially below that of other industries would weaken our ability to raise the money required to meet expected telephone needs. So the future quality of your telephone service depends on telephone rates sufficient to produce earnings attractive to investors.

Mrs. Lenore Bennette, 72, for more than fifty years a resident of Garden and Nahma vicinities, died Thursday at her home in Nahma, following an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Bennette was born in Canada on May 22, 1873 and moved with her folks when she was a child, to Isabella, where she grew to womanhood. She was a member of St. Andrew's Catholic church.

Surviving her are her husband, Wilmer Bennette, Garden; a son, Wilfred Chandrais, Flint; two sisters, Mrs. Oliver Boudrise, Iron Mountain; and Mrs. Joseph Chandrais, Manistique; a brother, Emil Gardner, Manistique, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Andrew's church in Nahma and burial will be in the Garden cemetery.

The body is now at the Morton funeral home and will be taken to the family residence at Nahma Saturday afternoon.

Lola Frenett
Is Bride Of
Ray C. Stell

At a ceremony at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, Miss Lola Marion Frenett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Frenett, of Gulliver, became the bride of Ray C. Stell, Storekeeper 3/C, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delor Beaudry. The Rev. Meldon Crawford officiated at the services.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Heafield, of Garden, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a grey wool dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

A 6 o'clock wedding dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents with a 3-tiered wedding cake forming a centerpiece on the table. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom, the latter garbed in navy uniform.

The bride is a graduate of Manistique high school, Class of 1944. The bridegroom entered the service before graduation and is still in the navy. He spent 21 months in the Marshall Islands. At the end of a 30-day leave he will return to his station on the west coast.

BISHOP PLEADS
FOR TOLERANCEDelivers Stirring Address
Before Women's Club

Even though we won the war, we are rapidly losing the peace, the Right Rev. Herman R. Page, bishop of the local arch diocese of the Episcopal church, asserted at a meeting of the Manistique Women's club at the Lakeside school Tuesday afternoon.

"We are making the same old mistakes all over again—mistrusting our Allies, shifting policies in our legislation, forgetting the ideals our boys fought and died for," said Bishop Page. "We are at the crossroads; either we can go on as we are doing, with strikes, intolerance of race, creed and color dominating our nation's thought; or we can begin to fight down those forces of evil and build a world intended for freedom and peace."

Bishop Page warned that "Split Allies are more dangerous than split atoms."

Concerning anti-Semitism, the bishop stated that it is not something to be worried about in the future. It is here, he said. He added that it was his personal belief that much of the rising wave of tolerance of the Jews and negroes was inspired by foreign powers hoping to divide this nation against itself. Much of the feeling, however, he said, is acquired in early childhood from the attitude of parents and friends. It is the individual who must correct this attitude in himself, he said.

Concerning the negro question, Bishop Page said that if we persist in our present treatment of negroes we shall drive them into the hands of the most radical trouble makers. He asked pointedly, "Would it not be better to help raise the political and economic standards of these people and so make them the kind of citizens we want and need in the United States?"

In conclusion, Bishop Page said he liked to think of this picture of the men who sat in his class at the Harvard Chaplains' School—a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi—who gave their life belts to their comrades and holding hands, knelt to pray and went down to death together in the cold waters of the Atlantic. Said he, "In the sight of God are not we all pretty much the same?"

BOY'S DEBT CANCELLED

Menominee—At request of Miss Stella Donovan of Hermansville, a Grant school teacher here, the juvenile court case of a hardwood Mich. boy is being dismissed by Judge Katherine Stiles Loughton. The youth injured Miss Donovan in an automobile accident and had been ordered to pay $100 on the installment plan, earning the money himself. He had paid $30 of the bill. During hunting season his father was accidentally shot and killed and Miss Donovan asked that the rest of the bill be cancelled.

CHRISTMAS EVE WILL BE DRY

Bars Here To Cease Selling At Nine O'clock

Christmas carols in Manistique and elsewhere about Schoolcraft county are going to be non-alcoholic this year, according to the wishes of the state liquor commission conveyed locally to Sheriff John M. Hewitt.

According to the communication the sale of any and all alcoholic beverages here will cease on Christmas Eve at 9 o'clock in the evening. Business hours on Christmas Day will be as usual.

The commission also orders that the sale and serving of alcoholic beverages on New Year's Eve will be extended to four o'clock Tuesday morning. The usual closing time set by law is two o'clock. An additional half hour time extension will be granted dealers for clearing the premises of celebrators.

Communication

Okinawa Shima, November 24, 1945.
Editor Escanaba Daily Press
Manistique, Michigan.

I thought that I would take this opportunity to write you a personal letter and hope that you will take heed and will be appreciated by everyone.

I really didn't know how to get this across to the folks at home so I thought that you may be able to take out some of my topics and print them in your paper.

I landed on Okinawa on April 1, and I have seen things that I would never forget, especially all those men who were killed on the boat which I was on when a Jap suicide plane crashed on her decks and ammunition was blasting all night long.

The first week in October our 80 pointers left the Bn and reported to the 11th POA and on the 9 of November all the men east of the Mississippi were loaded on board ship and 1200 men were scratched off the list the last minute and they loaded 800 Navy and officers on the ship. Last Thursday they left the island. They called all the men down to that same place who had from 75 to 79 points and in the Bn we have about 20 men who have 79 points and the replacement depot here has only lost their records three times.

Don't let anyone tell that Okinawa is such a beautiful place, no kidding this place is just like Alcatraz the only things that we do on this island is eat, go to the movies and sleep then the folks wonder why a person gets rock happy. The first four months went by fast but sir, these last four months have been going by slow.

There have been ships sitting in the harbors around here for at least two months and in fact some of them have been here since V-J day and they just don't move. I guess that all the ships have been going to Japan to pick up Mac's boys and we just have to sit on this God forsaken island and wait.

Do you know something, when I write home and tell people that there are no troops leaving this island when you hear over the radio that there are so many thousand arriving from the Pacific they don't believe me.

Here are some facts put out by the 25th Replacement Depot.

Stateside Score:
The following figures indicate the number of men on Okinawa awaiting shipment or processing at the 25th Replacement Depot as of midnight 15 November 1945:
Shipped in Nov. 9,150
Processed waiting shipment 11,858
Eligible, not processed 6,650

Twenty six thousand berths were allotted for the month of November. A partial allotment of 3600 spaces has been received for December.

Well I guess I will have to close for now, but I certainly hope that you will please write something about this letter and I would appreciate it very much.

As ever,
Col. Harold Johnson.
Editor's Note: On the back of the envelope was this legend: "No Boats—No Votes."

Mauritz Carlson Elected H. P. Of Royal Arch Masons

Mauritz Carlson was elected excellent high priest of the Royal Arch Masons at a meeting of the chapter Wednesday evening.

Other officers named at the meeting were: Ira Crawford, king; Chester Tyrrell; Roy E. Anderson, treasurer; Elwood Taylor, secretary; Dr. George A. Shaw, captain of the host; Keith Bundy, principle sojourner; Arthur Hall, royal arch captain; Frank Schmitt, master of the third veil; Harold Bowman, master of the second veil; Gage Byre, master of the first veil; and John L. Bellaire, sentinel.

The officers will be installed on the evening of Thursday, December 13, when installation ceremonies of the Blue Lodge and the Council will also be held.

Tips for Farmers

Warm Water For Hens

J. L. Heirman, county agricultural agent says, you may probably know that eggs are more than sixty-five per cent water, and if egg production is going to stay up on top, hens have to keep on drinking a good amount of water. The trouble is, hens, don't always drink enough... and the old saying about horses... that you can lead one to water but you can't make him drink... applies to hens, too. One of the big reasons why you can't make a hen drink is the temperature of the water.

When the temperature of drinking water drops down to forty degrees Fahrenheit, or lower, laying hens begin to drink less. If drinking fountains freeze over, hens get no water at all until the fountains are thawed out and refilled. In all, hens tend to drink up to twenty-five per cent less water during cold weather unless water is kept warm and free from ice.

To keep water at the proper temperature use small electric water warmers. These are inexpensive... do away with fire hazards... and will do the job without underestimating them.

You can choose from two types of poultry warmers now in general use... either the immersion type warmers or small electric heaters. The immersion type has sealed-in heating elements and the whole thing is placed in the water. When the water temperature drops to about forty degrees, a thermostat switches on the heating element. The small electric heaters have been designed to use under various types of water fountains.

The cost for using the poultry water warmers is little more than the price of an extra egg per hen. Actually, it's even less because you can expect a good many extra eggs per hen if you provide plenty of warm water, proper feed and care.

GOING TO HIBBING

Ironwood—The Rev. G. A. Kaltenbach, now an army chaplain stationed at 141 General Hospital Headquarters Schick General Hospital, Clinton Iowa, has accepted a call to be pastor of the Presbyterian church at Hibbing, Minn. He will assume his duties there shortly after his discharge from the army.

Chaplain Kaltenbach, was pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Ironwood when he was commissioned an army chaplain. He served a considerable time overseas.

His family resides at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Neville, 724 Wisconsin avenue, city, have just been notified of the marriage of their son, Richard S. Neville, 27, to Miss Evelyn Smisek of New York City. The ceremony took place in Brewster, New York.

The bride has been employed in the capacity of private secretary for the Jordanoff Aviation corporation of New York City for the past several years. The groom was formerly employed as a job engineer for the same corporation. He is now associated with John C. Cushing and Nevell, product designers and engineers of Park Lane, New York.

The groom is a graduate of the Manistique public schools and of Alma college in the Class of '38. He pursued post graduate studies at the University of Michigan and the Detroit College of Law. He was formerly employed by the Ford plant at Dearborn. During war time he worked with the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

The bride and groom are expected to arrive in the city about the 20th of the month to spend part of the holidays here before going on to visit at the home of the bride's parents in Minneapolis.

MAIL EARLY, TIP FROM PM

Is Only Way To Prevent Delay In Delivery Of Yule Mail

Mail those Christmas greeting cards and packages now and mark them "Do Not Open Until Christmas" if you want to avoid delays and the possibility they may not reach their destination in time. Postmaster B. R. Micks said yesterday.

Thus far there has been little mailing at the Gladstone office and unless early mailing urgings are heeded a rush may result the last few days before Christmas.

This year Christmas falls on Tuesday which undoubtedly will result in excessive handling of mail over the preceding week-end.

The postmaster general advises the postmasters:

"The public should be informed that the necessity for early mailing of Christmas cards, gifts and gift parcels is most imperative, due to the shortage of trained employees throughout the postal service.

"Mailings for distant states should be deposited well in advance of December 10, and Christmas greeting cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 15 to assure delivery before Christmas Day."

GRANBERG CUP SLALOM AWARD

Ski Club Plans To Honor First President At Carnival

A trophy in honor of the late Hilding Granberg will be provided to be awarded the winner of the slalom event in this year's winter carnival, it was decided by officers and directors of the Gladstone Ski club in meeting late Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Granberg was one of the prime movers in organizing the ski club,

Marquette vs. Eskymos Here Tonight; Trojans At Gladstone

TOUGH CONTEST EXPECTED HERE

Reserves To Play Powers High In Preliminary At 7:30 O'clock

Coach Jim Rouman's Eskymos, victorious in their initial clash of the basketball season last week against St. Joseph's Trojans, face a tough test tonight when they meet the Marquette high quintet, last year's Upper Peninsula champions, at 8:30 o'clock in the junior high gym.

The senior high school reserve team will play Powers high in preliminary at 7:30 p. m. Marquette swamped Munising in its opening tilt last week and the Gravenets have at least two from last year's aggregation who will perform tonight, among them Christenson, a forward, and Chapman, who were high scorers in the Munising game.

Coach Rouman said he would probably use the same starting lineup tonight that opened against the Trojans last week with Don Ohman at center, Finn and Ross in the forward positions and Scott and Dufour at guard.

Officials for the game will be Brunelle of Stephenson and Treado of Negaunee.

NEWBERRY FIVE PLAYS MUNISING

Munising — The Newberry Indians, with another reportedly strong basketball team, will be Mather high school's opposition this evening in their second encounter of the year. Due to the fact that stores are remaining open on Friday evenings until 9 o'clock, the main game will get underway at 8:30, preceded by a preliminary between the two B teams, starting at 7:15.

In an attempt to iron out some of the weaknesses that the locals showed last week against Marquette, Coach Genesee has been working the boys hard, trying to develop a scoring punch and also making them shoot more than their share of free throws. In last week's game only three out of 17 free throws were made which would have made a difference in the final score.

Practically the same combination that held Marquette effectively in the first half last week, composed of Beattie and Mazzali, guards; Luell and Salo, forwards, and Reed, center, is expected to start tonight's game.

A large crowd attended last week's game, and school officials are prepared tonight to have reserved seats for anyone who desires them. Refreshments will be sold during the game by the Hi-Y Club.

Quite a few of the boys who formerly played basketball have been discharged from the service and are scrimmaging the varsity twice a week. A team composed of Joe Rousseau, Len Lundblum, Bill Cox, Gary Zastrow and Joe Chartrand, beat the first stringers Wednesday evening in a close game, 36 to 44.

Second String Men Sold By Detroit

Columbus, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today disposed of three second-string players from their 1945 world championship baseball club.

Zeb Eaton, pinch-hitting pitcher, was sent to Buffalo of the International League. Catcher Bob Gillespie and Hank Oana, the Hawaiian who was converted from an outfielder into a pitcher, went to Dallas of the Texas League. All three were outright sales.

Dallas also obtained Jim Hresko, who switched from the pitcher's mound to third base last season, from Buffalo.

Doc Blanchard's Father Was Football Star, Too

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

New York—Going into the big one, Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis of Army between them had scored more touchdowns than all of Navy's backs combined, and the folks were arguing about who was the more valuable.

This Felix Anthony Blanchard comes by his ability naturally. They still talk about his father at Tulane, where he held sway under Clark Shaughnessy in 1915-16-20. Like his son, the elder Blanchard also was a track star, played baseball, too. It was from his pop that the current Bishopville Bombshell derives the nickname Doc.

Pater Blanchard's family was set on his becoming a great surgeon, considered football undignified for one so exalted a pro-man, who were high scorers in the Munising game.

Coach Rouman said he would probably use the same starting lineup tonight that opened against the Trojans last week with Don Ohman at center, Finn and Ross in the forward positions and Scott and Dufour at guard.

Officials for the game will be Brunelle of Stephenson and Treado of Negaunee.

BRIDGES NAMED TIGERS' COACH

Pitcher Who Won 193 Games One Of Two Added To Staff

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 6 (AP)—Tommy Bridges, hard-working little righthand pitcher who won 193 games in a 15-year playing career with the Detroit Tigers, today was named coach of Detroit's world baseball champions for the 1946 season.

Bridges, who returned late last season to the Tigers after two years of military service and pitched a Labor Day victory over the Chicago White Sox, was one of two new coaches taken on today by the Tigers.

The second is Frank V. Shellenback, 47-year old former Pacific Coast league pitching sensation and manager, who was a coach for the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox before becoming Detroit's world baseball scout a year ago.

The 1945 Tigers captured the American league pennant and beat the Chicago Cubs in the World Series while using but one coach, Art Mills. Manager Steve O'Neill himself coaches at third base.

No mention of Mills' status was made in the Tiger announcement today of the acquisition of Bridges and Shellenback as coaches.

Four Cadets Land On Collier's Team

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 1945 All-America football team selected by Collier's magazine includes four players from the all-victorious Army squad and two from Alabama's Rose Bowl eleven, it was announced today.

It is the 55th annual compilation of a mythical eleven by the magazine which printed Walter Camp's selections from 1889 until his death in 1939. Grantland Rice has made Collier's selections since then, aided in recent years by an advisory board of football writers.

John Green, Army guard, is the only member of Collier's 1944 team to repeat this year.

The team: Vaughn Mancha, Alabama, center.

Warren Ambling, Ohio State, guard.

John Green, Army, guard.

George Savitsky, Pennsylvania, tackle.

DeWitt Coulter, Army, tackle.

Richard Duden, Navy, end.

Hubert Bechtol, Texas, end.

Herman Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, quarterback.

Glenn Davis, Army, halfback.

Harry Gilmer, Alabama, halfback.

Felix Blanchard, Army, halfback.

Blanchard went to Tulane for a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde role from the West Parishes, the Cajun country, out of a little Louisiana town named White Castle.

The first Blanchard evidently was bigger than his strapping son who carries his six feet and 208 pounds the length of a football field in 10.1. He was of such size that a teammate referred to him as owning a controlling interest in the Beef Trust.

"The big Frenchman is about the fastest man who ever appeared in the stadium," said this player. "He tears right through and when he hits a man the victim seldom knows he has been hit—till he comes to."

That is precisely how the enemy feels about the present Blanchard.

Off the field, the first great Blanchard was a dignified young man.

One of his professors wrote of him: "Big Boy, as he is affectionately known, is one of the noblest sons of the Pelican state. A physical giant, Felix Blanchard was a winning factor in the Roll-in Green Wave, yet he is instilled with the principles of sobriety and the determination to win in his pursuit of the never ending fundamentals of the science of medicine. This, with his unsurpassed personality, assures him an enviable reputation among the foremost surgeons of the day."

Blanchard had been graduated from Wake Forest with a B. S. degree. His medicine completed, he practiced at Bishopville, S. C., until his untimely death at 43 or 44 in the spring of 1943, shortly after obtaining his brilliant son's appointment to the Military Academy.

It's a pity Felix Anthony Blanchard I could not have lived to see Felix Anthony Blanchard II carry on the line to national proportions.

Honeymoon Golfing Clicks For Rutan In Miami Tourney

By WILBUR JENNINGS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Stocky Chick Rutan of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., came to Miami on a honeymoon, but tonight led the field of the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament with a two-under 68.

The 34-year old Rutan, who has never won a major tournament, paced the field of 220 golfers, largest number ever to participate in the event with his sub-par opening round.

Using his putter "as never before" and watched by his red-haired bride of six weeks, Rutan sank four birdies during the round which included eight one-putt greens. He went out in 34 and came back in the same number of strokes.

Seven were bunched at 69. Back another stroke at 70 was little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the pre-tournament favorite.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., who hasn't won an open since the Salt Lake City event in 1944, blasted his ball into the wooden bleachers back of the 18th green to take a five on the hole. A par four would have given him a 68 to tie Rutan.

Slammin' Sammy Snead of Virginia, who with Hogan rated among pre-tourney favorites, carded a one-over-par 71.

Powers Defeats Stephenson, 27-15

Led by high-scoring Forward Perket, the Powers high school basketball team defeated the Stephenson Eagles last night, 27 to 15. The game was played on fairly even terms except in the second quarter, when Powers rolled up a margin which they held throughout the game.

In a preliminary, the Eagles reserves won from the Powers reserves, 21 and 10.

Boxers Asked To Sign For Training With Ray Goodnough

Boxers and men and boys interested in boxing who would like to begin training are asked to leave their names with Ray Goodnough, 110 North 19th street, between 6 and 8 p. m. today or Saturday.

Eight boxers have already arranged to begin training but Goodnough would like as many as 20 fighters to complete the program.

Novices should be at least 16 years of age.

New Easy-to-Use Camera Developed

Cincinnati—A new aid to the surgeon who wants to record pictorially the details of a new operation or technique but who has no expert photographer at his service will be demonstrated for the first time at the meeting here Nov. 12 to 15 of the Southern Medical Association.

It consists of an easily operated, high-speed camera developed by the Army's Pictorial Service for the Surgeon General's Office. Black and white or color still pictures on 35 mm film can be taken indoors and outdoors at distances of from six inches to 12 feet. Every phase of the picture-taking except focussing and clicking the shutter is automatic.

The camera was devised from an idea originally conceived by Capt. Rollin W. King and Emmanuel Berlant. It weighs approximately 5 1/2 pounds, is operated from a portable electric power pack, which weighs approximately 27 pounds, and it may be plugged into any ordinary current line.

The camera contains its own built-in light source, a coiled circular quartz vapor discharge tube. The tube, designed and constructed by the General Electric Company, gives a flash of approximately 1/25,000 of a second duration, too short a period of time to harm the eye.

One of the first captured German aircraft flown to the United States was a JU-290 four-motored bomber. Comparable to a B-29, it does 240 miles an hour, and carries 90 men.

BRAVES OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Fast St. Joseph Five To Meet Keilmens At Gladstone Gym

The fast, scrappy St. Joseph high school Trojans, who were very much in the ball game they lost to Escanaba last Friday, are expected to give Coach Eldon Keil's basketball outfit, untied yet this season, plenty of trouble when the Braves open tonight on the Gladstone floor at 8:15 o'clock.

Reserve teams of both schools will meet in a preliminary contest at 7:15 p. m.

Fred Boddy, Trojan mentor, said he would probably start Bob McCarthy and Frank Stropich at forwards, Bob Lewis or Charles Hird at center and Carl Fassbender and Don Lewis at guards. However, Ed McCarthy, Jim Murphy, Bill Courneane and Ray Roberts are expected to see some action too.

Clifford Gillis will start at center for Gladstone with Alden Haglund and David Olson in the forward positions, Capt. David Engstrom and Harry Olive at guards.

Game official will be Vanni of Negaunee.

MINORS REBUFF CZAR CHANDLER

Rumor Says Bing Crosby May Be New Owner Of Cleveland Indians

By SID FEDER

Columbus, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues, which up to now have stayed out of Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's fight with some of the major league rolled-up their sleeves at their convention today and jumped into it with fists swinging.

Chandler appeared before the minor leagues at their convention first thing this morning and pleaded against proposed legislation "offensive and obnoxious to me personally." His words had hardly ten minutes to cool off before the moguls voted legislation sharply curbing his powers over minor league ball, and from there they went on to an additional rebuff by refusing to amend their player rules "unfair and illegal."

Along with these developments was the revival of a rumor that the Cleveland Indians may be sold, with Bing Crosby crooning his way in as owner. It was reported Bing, long seeking a big league club, is interested primarily in an American League outfit. Developments on this angle may be heard at the joint major league meetings in Chicago next week.

In his speech Chandler pointed out that he has a seven-year contract as commissioner "and for seven years I intend to make decisions in baseball which you are not able to make yourselves."

"I've found out you talk behind a fellow's back," he accused the minor league presidents and club owners. "I did not seek the position of commissioner of baseball. It was offered to me."

He stepped out and the minor leagues went to work. One of the first things they did was to approve amendments to both the major-minor league agreement and the minor league law that no legislation or rule in either baseball category can be construed as "detrimental to baseball."

The convention also approved the proposed new major-minor league agreement as drawn up by the minor league revision committee. It now goes to the majors next week. Its contents are still secret, but reports are it, too, contains stipulations that will take more power from the commissioner.

They will be advised that right now the two established major leagues have a corner on major league playing talent and it will be several years before a new league could build up its strength to a point it really could class with the old leagues.

They will be advised that all their parks aren't large enough and that the fans might not go for a hike in admission prices necessary to maintain major league standards.

They will be advised that now is a good time to bid for higher classification as there will be an abundance of players returning from service and they could get a better start now in building better teams than they could later.

They will be advised that the Pacific slope turns out a great deal of the better playing talent, and there is no reason the boys shouldn't stay there and play instead of being brought east.

They will be advised they shouldn't listen to any advice and should go right ahead and do as they think best, as when you start letting others run your business you'll run into trouble.

As mentioned, it's assumed the coast officials have considered all the problems brought out in this prospective advice, and many others. After all, it's their peanut stand, and if they think they can expand it's not for outsiders to say they can't.

Rock, Rapid River Quintets Will Meet Tonight At Rock

The Rapid River high school basketball team will clash with Rock at the Rock high school gym tonight.

The seventh and eighth grade teams and the reserve quintets of both schools will meet in preliminary games.

James Short, who was recently discharged from the service, has been engaged as basketball coach at Rapid River for the remainder of the semester.

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Hugh Devore, coach of Notre Dame's football team this year, said tonight he plans to accept another head coaching assignment next year.

Conn Will Beat Louis, Claims Gus Lesnevich

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

New York—Gus Lesnevich predicts Billy Conn will come roaring down the stretch next June to lift the heavyweight championship from Joe Louis.

"If Conn comes up to the fight in tip top shape, takes full advantage of his remarkable left hand and forgets about punching, he'll do it" says the light-heavyweight leader who is intimately acquainted with the Pittsburgh collar ad as the result of having boxed him 30 rounds.

"Opponents, including me, have found it comparatively easy to stay even with Conn or get out in front of him in the earlier rounds, but he becomes harder to handle as the thing rolls along, is toughest of all in the late heats."

"That is why, when he steamed into the 13th well on top of Louis, I thought he was a lock."

"He was hurt in the early going, however, and in the end was carrying the fight out of sheer desperation and as a means of self preservation."

"As a matter of fact, Conn showed amazing stamina. Billy is dead game. Louis doesn't precisely toss love taps, you know. No wonder Billy's legs got tired under those body belts. That's why he finally was nailed. He suddenly lost his speed afoot, indeed practically all of his ability to move at all."

"There was extenuating circumstances that June night in 1941 too. Conn's mother was very ill. He was to glove immediately following the fight and was having trouble with his future father-in-law, who ultimately knocked him out of a rematch, you will recall. He was in a mental turmoil, and you have to keep your mind on your work when in there with Louis."

"A fighter reaches his peak and then starts to go down. Louis will be 32 in June, can't possibly be as formidable as he was. Conn, at 28, will be three years and five months younger, and a good rule is to stick to the younger man."

"Both need money following their stretches in the service—as you doesn't?—but Conn is the hungrier of the two. He has the incentive of wanting the title."

"Conn has been developing and growing. Louis has been growing softer, has rusted to a greater extent. Conn was nothing more than a light-heavyweight last trip, and even at that he confused and staggered Louis. While it may be at the sacrifice of some speed, he will be bigger and stronger this time, and naturally a harder hitter."

Much depends on how they come up to the match, but right now Gus Lesnevich likes Conn. Jim Braddock recently came out for the Irishman.

This thing will go on and on to fan the second edition between Joe Louis and Billy Conn into the most magnetic sports attraction in history.

Robert C. Brown, Missing Since 1942, Is Declared Dead

MM 3/c Robert Clayton Brown, who has been missing in action since the battle of the Java Sea, March 1, 1942, has been officially declared dead by the navy department, in a letter from the Secretary of the navy to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brown, 1902 First avenue south.

Part of the letter follows: Your son, MM 3/c Robert Clayton Brown, USN, has been carried on the official records of the navy department in the status of missing in action as of 1 March 1942, when the U. S. S. Asheville, the ship aboard which he served, was reported lost as a result of enemy action.

According to information which has now been received, on 28 February 1942, a strong enemy force operating in two groups about 150 miles southeast of Tjilatjap, Java, were reported headed toward the northwest. On 1 March 1942 all Allied surface craft operating in the vicinity of Java were ordered to proceed to Exmouth Gulf, Australia. In compliance with this order, the Asheville left Tjilatjap on that date.

A survivor of the Asheville, who later died as a prisoner of war at Makasar, Celebes Island, East Indies, informed naval personnel who were liberated from that camp, that the Asheville was sunk approximately 300 miles south of Java by fire from enemy surface vessels. While many of the crew were killed in action, some of the personnel managed to abandon ship. After the ship sank, three Japanese destroyers came along side, only one of which threw out a rescue line. The above mentioned crew member was the only survivor taken aboard ship, and the remainder of the crew were left in the water. To date, no further information has been received concerning the Asheville or any other member of the crew.

In view of the length of time that has elapsed since your son was determined to be missing in action * I am reluctantly forced to the conclusion that he is deceased. ***

Robert C. Brown was born in Escanaba on June 24, 1920. He was graduated from the Felch high school in 1939, and took his first navy examinations at Escanaba in December of that year. He entered the Great Lakes training station in Jan., 1940. After completing boot camp, he was assigned to the aircraft carrier Lexington. In the summer of 1942 he volunteered for Asiatic duty, and was assigned to the U. S. S. Asheville.

He is survived by his parents, two sisters, Mrs. Robert W. Timmer of Escanaba and Kathleen Brown of Los Angeles; and a brother, Lewis, who is stationed at Great Lakes, Ill.
